

Spacewalk ends Skylab power crisis

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two Skylab astronauts took a daring four-hour walk in space Thursday and freed a jammed solar power wing, ending a 15-day energy crisis aboard America's first orbital space station.

Mission control told Charles "Pete" Conrad and Joseph P. Kerwin their risky salvage effort appeared a 100 per cent success. NASA officials expressed optimism for near normal completion of the 28-day Skylab 1 flight and two more 56-day missions later this year.

President Nixon—in a message read by mission control to Conrad, Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz aboard Skylab—praised the all-Navy crew for proving man can work in space "even as he does on earth."

If there are no more serious failures in the space station's trouble-plagued electrical system, the extra power provided by the solar cell wing could save the Skylab program. Without it, the second and third mission might have been drastically curtailed.

"We're feeling rather bullish right now," said Skylab director William C. Schneider. "With the relief that we should be getting from this added electrical power, we think we'll be in great shape."

Successful completion of man's first repair spacewalk was a triumph Conrad and Kerwin had given themselves only a 50-50 chance of achieving. It was the most dangerous work ever attempted in space.

"Super duper!" Conrad shouted when mission control told him the solar wing was fully extended. "Man, we've charged up all our batteries."

Before the spacewalk Skylab had been operating under stringent power conservation plans which required the astronauts to dim lights and turn off equipment to operate scientific instruments. All of the planned research activities had to be sharply curtailed.

But the newly-deployed solar wing was expected to provide some 2,000 watts of electricity on its own—almost enough to run the station without drawing on previous power supplies.

With their exhausting repairs complete, the astronauts settled down for their 14th night in space. They were to beat the U. S. single-flight space endurance record—330 hours, 35 minutes, set by Gemini 7 in 1965—at 3:36 a.m. EDT today.

Conrad and Kerwin, tethered outside the orbiting research outpost 272 miles above the earth, severed a jagged strip of aluminum debris with hookjawed bolt cutters and tugged the power wing open at 2 p.m. Weitz manned a control panel inside the space station airlock and televised parts of the bold venture to earth.

Conrad later reported that "one little lousy single bolt" in the end of the aluminum strip—a bolt which cost less than $1—was imbedded in the wing and held the debris fast. This was what kept the debris from being pushed aside when the astronauts tugged—and failed—to open the wing on their first day in space May 25.

A triple bank of glassy solar cells unfolded accordion fashion from inside the 30-foot wing and began converting sunlight into precious electricity as soon as the wing swung open.

Ex-Nixon aide admits perjury

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former Nixon campaign aide testified Thursday that his superior, Jeb Stuart Magruder, asked him after the Watergate break-in to lie twice about "some dirty tricks...that could be very embarrassing to the President of the United States."

The aide, Herbert L. Porter, told the Senate Watergate Committee he did lie in one instance to the FBI, the federal grand jury and the Watergate trial last January—as Magruder had suggested—but that he refused to commit a second perjury.

Both suggested falsehoods, Porter said, concerned money used by convicted Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, described as the mastermind of the June 17 break-in and bugging of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate.

Former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman meanwhile said in testimony released Thursday that President Nixon's concern in the months after the break-in was the effect Watergate would have on his re-election chances, and that the President did not order a full report on the affair until last March.

"There was a natural concern on his part, being at that time up for re-election and conducting a campaign for re-election, that the insinuations and appearances and allegations that were arising would be detrimental to that campaign effort, and that there was a desire that the facts be known, cleared up and established in the public mind as well as legally so that those doubts would not persist," Haldeman said.

Once Nixon had won reelection by a landslide in November, Haldeman said, the President said he wanted the affair cleared up before his inauguration in January "so that it wouldn't be hanging over into the second term."

In a deposition taken May 22-25 for the Democrats' $6.4 million civil damages suit, Haldeman said the President did not ask for a full report on Watergate until March 20. The next day, he said, former White House counsel John W. Dean III told Nixon nobody in the White House had been involved.

As the Senate committee ended its third week of nationally televised hearings on the scandal, Porter followed former campaign treasurer Hugh W. Sloan Jr. in accusing Magruder, the deputy campaign director, of exerting pressure on them to commit perjury or keep silent.

Clarence M. Kelley . . . Nixon's choice.

Kelley selected to be FBI director

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Thursday selected Kansas City police chief Clarence M. Kelley to be FBI director, describing him as "the best man in the country for the position."

Kelley, a 21-year veteran of the FBI before he was named police chief in 1961, told reporters in a brief statement that he plans to combat crime without infringing on "human rights and dignity."

Carefully avoiding the partisan pitfalls that snared Nixon's previous nominee, L. Patrick Gray, the White House refused to say if Kelley was a Democrat or a Republican.

If confirmed by the Senate, Kelley will become the first permanent FBI head since J. Edgar Hoover died more than a year ago. Gray served as acting director for 11 months before he was forced to resign amid criticism of FBI handling of the Watergate investigation.

Attorney General Elliot Richardson, who was at Kelley's side during a brief appearance in the White House press room, said William D. Ruckelshaus would continue as acting director until Kelley is confirmed.

"The attorney general and I agree and the Cabinet agrees that we selected the best man in the country for the position," Nixon said to newsmen who were admitted to the Oval Office for a short picture-taking session.

When a reporter asked Kelley about his politics, Nixon put his hand in front of the nominee and said: "We haven't even asked him whether he is a Democrat or a Republican — don't tell them."

When reporters later asked Acting Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren about Kelley's party affiliation, Warren said, "It's not a big deal with the President, I'll tell you that."

Flurry of activity marks peace talks

PARIS (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger met for three hours and 40 minutes Thursday with his Hanoi counterpart, Le Duc Tho, amid a flurry of activity here and in Saigon which suggested the two men might be near agreement on arrangements to create a genuine Indochina cease-fire.

The two sides agreed to meet again today at 3 p.m. The site will be a Communist-owned villa at the Paris suburb of Gif-sur-Yvette.

Thursday's meeting was delayed for five hours. Asked about this, Kissinger quipped that his chief deputy, William Sullivan, "slept in."

At the end of the meeting, held at an American villa in suburban Saint Nom La Breche, there was the usual handshaking and smiles, but the atmosphere appeared less cordial than after previous sessions.

Vietnamese photographers were called to be on hand, but were not called into the talks and took no pictures. The photographers were present Wednesday as well, but took no pictures then either. The presence of the photographers led to speculation that they were on hand to record the signing of a new agreement. When the first Paris peace treaty was signed last January, photographers were called for.

Bicyclist killed when hit by car

EFFORT — A 56-year-old Effort man riding a bicycle was struck and killed by a car on Old Rte. 115, two miles north of Effort Thursday night.

Wilbur E. Bishop was pronounced dead on arrival at 9:05 p.m. at the General Hospital of Monroe County by Dr. David Boyer, a hospital physician.

State police at Fern Ridge said Miss Jeanette Olsen, 43, Denilyn Motel, Saylorsburg, was driving south on Rte. 115 at 8:30 p.m. when she lost control. Her car reportedly veered to the right side of the road and then into the northbound lane striking Bishop, who was riding a bike.

Both persons were taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County by the West End Ambulance.

Miss Olsen suffered scalp and arm lacerations according to a hospital spokesman.

Bishop was employed as a caretaker for Mr. and Mrs. William Tampa for the past year and a half. He lived on the Sugar Hollow Road located between Effort and McMichaels.

Monroe County Coroner Daniel Warner attributed death to multiple internal injuries.

Trooper John Smith and the state police at Fern Ridge are continuing their investigation.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by the Kresge Funeral Home, Brodheadsville.

Shepstone begins column for youth

STROUDSBURG — How can young people get involved in their community, help steer its course, affect its decisions, improve its outlook?

Just ask Tom Shepstone. He has many ideas about what the youth of any community can do to help make it their own. And he'll be telling all about it in The Record in his weekly column, "Youth's Community," starting today on page 8.

Shepstone, a March, 1973, graduate of Penn State, is one of six Youth Agents in the state, working for the state's Cooperative Extension Service under a federally funded pilot program for rural development with emphasis on youth.

How does Shepstone see his task? "Primarily, I'm here to get area young people involved in the community," he said. "I'd like to help youth become involved in the community decision-making process. I'd like to help them develop a community awareness."

To that end, he is writing his column for young people, to appear every Friday in The Record. He also is available for speaking engagements before various service and other groups. And he is at the Extension Service's office in the Post Office at Seventh and Ann Streets, Stroudsburg, "to help as a resource person in forming youth groups dedicated to community activity."

Shepstone knows whereof he speaks. A native of Honesdale and a graduate of Damascus High School, he was himself involved in community affairs in his home town. He majored in agriculture economics while at Penn State, and comes to this, his first post, with the enthusiasm of youth and a determination to make that enthusiasm contagious to youth in the community.

Inflation action demanded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Tuesday sought advice from his Cabinet on ways to curb inflation and Senate Democrats threatened to adopt a 90-day wage-price freeze if the administration fails to act.

The White House and congressional action came as the government reported that the wholesale price index rose 2.1 per cent in May, led by huge increase in farm prices. The Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) said farm prices increased a record 39 per cent over the past year.

Several congressmen and AFL-CIO President George Meany cited the report as proof that Nixon's Phase III voluntary prices controls are not working.

"The President considers inflation the No. 1 problem in the country," acting White House press secretary Gerald L. Warren told newsmen following a meeting between Nixon and his Cabinet.

Warren's statement increased speculation that Nixon soon will initiate a new program to control rapidly increasing prices. Administration officials hinted that an announcement could be expected next week.

Although some senators noted that President Nixon could act more quickly than Congress, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., introduced an amendment to a pending federal financing bank bill which would put a 90-day freeze on wages, prices, rents, interest rates and dividends.

The measure also would direct the President to use the three-month period to "develop and implement a long-range, fair, workable plan to control inflation and protect the purchasing power of the dollar."

HERSHEY — This is a tall tale or a short story. The long and short of it: 5'8" Sandra Rona married 3'8" James Priscoe Thursday. The bride is a showgirl and her new husband is a midjet-clown with a circus. The wedding vows were intoned in Common Pleas Court, Harrisburg, as the couples' colleagues from the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus looked on.

Jobless rate climbs

HARRISBURG — The unemployment rate in Pennsylvania reached 4.5 per cent level in May, the state Bureau of Employment Security said Thursday. The bureau estimated the number of jobless at 220,000 up 5,000 from the 4.4 per cent April rate. However, last month's figures are well below the 5.5 per cent unemployment rate of May, 1972.

Payola testimony heard

NEWARK — Four men linked with allegations that disc jockeys were supplied money, women and drugs as payola for playing new records appeared Thursday before a federal grand jury investigating nationwide corruption in the music industry. In addition, Clive Davis, recently deposed head of Columbia Broadcasting System records, was questioned by federal officials.

Farm challenge defeated

WASHINGTON — Senate farm leaders Thursday easily beat down a challenge to their plan for a new farm support system under which growers would draw subsidies on major crops only when market prices fall below proposed new "target" levels. By a roll call of 80-14, the Senate rejected a proposal to strip the new support plan of a pending five-year farm bill and replace it with a program under which income subsidy payments to grain and cotton growers would have been phased out by 1977.

Consumer programs aid approved

WASHINGTON — The House Appropriation Committee Thursday approved a $9.4 billion spending bill for rural, environmental and consumer programs — some of which President Nixon wanted to abolish. The House was expected to act on the measure next week. Although the bill included money for some programs which Nixon did not want funded, other programs were trimmed.

Class size no issue in teacher contract

HARRISBURG (UPI)— Commonwealth Court, in a ruling that has already sparked controversy, said Thursday teacher unions have no right to bargain over such issues as class size and non-teaching duties.

Splitting 4-3 on a Centre County test case, the court listed 22 items that were "inherent managerial policy" to be decided by a school board and not through collective bargaining.

The decision, condemned by the Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA), could have the effect of limiting contract talks to wages, benefits and working hours.

PSEA, the state's biggest teacher union, said it would appeal to the state Supreme Court. The union has claimed it has the right to bargain for improved "working conditions," that could cover every phase of school operations.

Fred L. Hoffman, president of the Pennsylvania School Boards Association, praised the ruling as a "major victory for the general public."

"The effect of this decision is that employee unions cannot determine the quality, quantity, or form of education that children will receive in public schools," Hoffman said.

The ruling came because of confusion over provisions of Act 195, the 1970 law that gives public employees the right to organize and strike.

"Act 195 places an overriding limitation on collective bargaining by public employees as to matters of inherent managerial policy," the court said in a majority opinion written by Judge Glenn E. Mencer.

The state Labor Relations Board said in 1971 that the State College Education Association in Centre County could not bargain for the 22 items. The ruling was upheld in Centre County Court last November, but the union appealed.

The teachers wanted the right to bargain over class size, outside duties—such as bus and hall monitors—notice of teaching assignments for the next year, and the number of teaching house in a week.

The four Republican judges ruled against the union, but the three Democrats said at least two of the items were subject to bargaining.

Farm prices see hike

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Farm prices rose during the past 12 months at the fastest rate ever and wholesale prices pushed higher still in May, the government said Thursday, clouding administration forecasts of progress on the anti-inflation front.

At the end of May, farm prices stood 39 per cent higher than a year earlier—a record increase for any 12-month period—and 6.1 per cent above April, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

Industrial prices, which carry great inflationary clout even though they tend to rise and fall less rapidly than food prices, gained another 1.1 per cent in May. Together, they helped to push the government's Wholesale Price Index up 2.1 per cent last month, indicating that the recent rapid rise in consumer prices is not about to wane.

Adjusted for seasonal variation, the May increase was 2 per cent.

To the surprise of many and the delight of the administration, farm prices actually declined in April after five months of heavy increases. But they bounced back with a vengeance in May, rising at the fastest rate since December.

Brandt pays visit to Israel

JERUSALEM (UPI)— Chancellor Willy Brandt began the first visit to Israel by a German head of government Thursday with one minute of silent prayer in memory of the six million Jews slain as part of Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler's "final solution."

Brandt then wished Israel peace with its Arab neighbors but said he had not come to offer advice in this matter. "A visit to Israel by a German head of government is not a matter of course," Brandt said later at a dinner in his honor. "The fact that this has been possible is proof, if I may say so, of the courage and power of reason."

War powers bill boosted in House

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The House Foreign Affairs Committee, in a historic reassertion of congressional war powers, adopted legislation Thursday prohibiting any President from sending U.S. troops into armed conflict for longer than four months without express permission from Congress.

The resolution, a product of the furor in Congress over presidential commitments of troops to the Vietnam war, cleared the committee by a 30-4 vote and was sent to the House floor.

Similar legislation is ready for Senate action and it now appears a strong war powers measure will emerge from Congress this year. But President Nixon is expected to veto it.

The House measure, unlike the Senate version, would apply to the war in Indochina or any other conflict in which the United States might be engaged when it is enacted.

A hastily drafted compromise amendment by Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., making the resolution retroactive was adopted 21 to 10 before the final vote.

This means that—if the committee's version is enacted—the President would have 72 hours to submit a report to Congress setting forth the circumstances, constitutional justification and estimated cost of continuing U.S. involvement in the Indochina conflict, assuming it is still going on.

After the report is submitted, both houses—by a simple majority vote—could force immediate U.S. disengagement by adopting a concurrent resolution forbidding further involvement. A concurrent resolution cannot be vetoed by the President.

In any event, the House measure would force the President to disengage from Indochina within 120 days unless he obtains affirmative congressional authority—either through a declaration of war or other means—of both houses.

This same procedure—a report from the President within 72 hours, a requirement to gain congressional approval within 120 days thereafter and the authority to stop the war at any time by a veto-proof concurrent resolution—would apply to any future armed conflict in which the United States becomes involved.

The administration and some members of Congress contend the measure amounts to a virtual constitutional amendment by statute. If enacted, the measure is likely to be tested in the courts.

S. Viets will refuse to sign new cease-fire agreement

SAIGON (UPI)— South Vietnam said Thursday it would refuse to sign a new Indochina cease-fire agreement which government sources said had been worked out between Henry A. Kissinger and his Hanoi counterpart, Le Duc Tho, in Paris.

Sources said Kissinger and Tho had agreed on the basic outline of a new agreement, including a new call for a cease-fire, to shore up the shaky Paris agreement of Jan. 27. The draft of the new agreement has not yet been written, the sources said.

Government spokesman Bui Bao Truc said that since South Vietnam had not broken the original agreement, it would not sign a second one. But he said Saigon would "go along with anything sensible" that came out of the Kissinger-Tho negotiations in Paris and said Saigon might be willing to sign a communique. Truc refused to deny or confirm that a new agreement had been negotiated.

There was a flurry of meetings in Saigon Thursday while Kissinger and Tho unexpectedly delayed their meeting in Paris for five hours. Acting American Ambassador Charles Whitehouse met for 2 hours and 45 minutes with President Nguyen Van Thieu and met twice with Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam.

Since the original peace agreement went into effect on Jan. 28, South Vietnam claims the Communists have committed 15,785 violations resulting in the deaths of 23,337 Communist soldiers, 5,728 South Vietnamese troopers and 976 civilians. The Communists say the South Vietnamese have committed more than 100,000 violations.

Sources said Thieu has put up certain conditions for an agreement worked out by Kissinger and Tho, just as he did before the Paris agreement was completed. Among the conditions, the sources said, is that a South Vietnamese representative be present for negotiations on points which directly affect South Vietnam such as the presence of North Vietnamese troops in the south and the replacement of arms.

In military action, a battle in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon continued for the fourth day Thursday. Saigon command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said 73 Communists were killed in two battles in the area Wednesday and another 23 died in a fight along the Central Coast in Binh Dinh province.

Military sources said 24 South Vietnamese troops were killed, 32 wounded and 32 listed as missing after a fight Tuesday about 100 miles southwest of Saigon.

Police fund 'gift' linked to Mafia

HARRISBURG (UPI)— A House Committee Thursday linked a $700 state police pension fund contribution to William Medico, a Luzerne County man identified by the Crime Commission as "an associate of upper level Cosa Nostra."

The testimony came during a House probe into the quality of law enforcement in Pennsylvania. The panel was questioning Commissioner James D. Barger about contributions solicited by troopers for their Civic Association Pension Fund.

"Were you aware that in 1972 Troop P in Wyoming received a $200 contribution from Medico Industries, and a $500 contribution from Medico Industries in 1971?" asked investigator Downey Rice.

Barger said he did not know about the gift, adding it was up to local troopers to screen all contributions to the fund to make sure they were not from organized crime.

Rice then read the following report from the 1970 Crime Commission Annual Report:

"William Medico: An associate of Russell Bufalino. General Manager of Medico Industries, Inc., a multi-million dollar corporation in Luzerne County. Named as 'criminal associate' of Russell Bufalino by the federal Bureau of Narcotics. Has arrests for suspicion of murder and assault, and convictions for bootlegging and disorderly conduct."

Bufalino, the Crime Commission said, is the boss of the northeastern Pennsylvania Mafia. He currently is facing deportation by the federal government.

Most of the session targeted the specifics of the Civic Association Pension Fund, which state policemen started in 1917 to supplement their state pension programs.

Committee Chairman Joseph Hepford, R-Dauphin asked Barger if it were true that active state policemen solicit contributions from business, bus companies and truck firms.

Barger said it had been the case, but when he became commissioner after Rocco P. Urella was fired early this year, he ordered that all solicitation be done by retired troopers.

Hepford told Barger he had records showing the state police accepted some $20,000 in contributions in 1971 from trucking-related companies.

Committee members asked Barger if that amount prompted troopers to ignore truckers and bus drivers who exceed the speed limits or drive recklessly.

"Who made the contributions meant nothing to the troopers on the highway," Barger said. "The only troopers who knew about them were the ones who collected them."

IT SHOULDN'T TAKE AN ACT OF CONGRESS TO MAKE CARS SAFE.

Volvo was committed to safety long before it became mandatory.

In 1956, for example, we installed padded dashboards: 12 years before the government insisted on them.

In 1959, Volvo became the first mass-produced car in the world with safety belts as standard equipment. Nine years later all cars had safety belts, inspired by Federal regulations.

We don't just settle for the legal minimum, either:

The law says all cars must have two brake circuits. Volvos have two triangular circuits, each controlling three wheels. So if one circuit fails, you still have about 80% of your braking power.

Volvos also have many safety features not required by law:

Like front and rear ends which absorb the impact of collisions. Four-wheel disc brakes with a pressure-proportioning valve to reduce the chances of rear-wheel lock-up. Child-proof rear doors. Rear window defrosters.

Now who would you rather buy a car from?

A company that builds a safe car because someone else made them do it?

Or a company that builds a safe car because their conscience made them do it?

Jackson residents have no place to dispose garbage

REEDERS — Jackson Township residents have no place to dispose their garbage.

At the township supervisor's regular meeting Wednesday, Supervisor John Strausser announced that Chestnuthill Township Supervisors will not allow Jackson residents to use their dump in the future.

Jackson residents have been permitted to dispose their refuse at the Chestnuthill site on Saturdays since the Butz landfill closed down about two months ago.

The board discussed several possible solutions to the problem, but decided nothing.

A resident suggested the township contract for containers to store trash in at a central location. The refuse would eventually be carted away to a state-approved dumping site.

Supervisors stressed the suggestion was similar to the temporary solution being undertaken in Pocono Township.

They said the costs of such a project are prohibitive. It was estimated Pocono Township pays about $700 a month for the service.

Another alternative, which seemed more feasible to supervisors, was the possibility of creating a landfill in the township.

Land would have to be purchased or leased for such an undertaking.

However, it was emphasized that procuring approval from the Department of Environmental Resources would be difficult and supervisors said such a site would probably not be available.

At one time, Jackson officials planned to participate in a compacting operation in Pocono Township. According to the supervisors, however, the proposed transfer station will now probably be located in Hamilton Township.

At the present time, no real solution has been worked out for Jackson residents, whose garbage is due to start piling up.

Supervisors have promised to work on the problem this month and it is expected some solution will be forthcoming at the board's July meeting.

Eldred sewerage inspector quits because he's 'fed up'

By MAUREEN RUFÉ
Pocono Record Reporter
(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a four-part series detailing the "actions" of the Eldred Township Supervisors in one meeting.)

KUNKLETOWN — Claiming he was "just fed up with all the aggravation," Eldred Township Sewerage Inspector Dean Leslie officially resigned at the supervisors' regular meeting Saturday morning.

Leslie, who is responsible for issuing sewerage permits and building permits in the township, gave no specific details for resigning, but said in 10 days his decision would be effective.

Chairman Adam Meckes said he had at least a half dozen candidates for the job and indicated that one would be appointed sometime this month.

The supervisors discussed the possibility of passing an ordinance which would require all roads to be blacktopped in the township before they would be taken over.

At first, Meckes disagreed with the idea, but then changed his position when he realized that future blacktopping projects, coupled with the cost of a sewerage feasibility study and the possible need to install sewerage facilities in the future would be too expensive.

The supervisors are expected to discuss the proposed ordinance with solicitor James Wimmer this month to draw up a proposed ordinance in the near future.

Two women residents, who refused to give their names, volunteered to serve on the Eldred Township Planning Commission. The board is expected to take formal action on its appointment at the next township meeting.

Some controversy has arisen over the planning board's decision to hire a secretary at a cost of $15 a month. The supervisors have refused to pay her salary, now up to $45, saying the commission was set-up to operate without any expenses.

Since one of the ladies volunteered to serve as secretary if appointed, it is felt this may be a factor in the supervisors' decision.

Formal action was expected to be taken by the supervisors on the Weston report, but the matter was not brought up.

Wimmer was supposed to review the plan and make recommendations at the meeting, but he didn't attend.

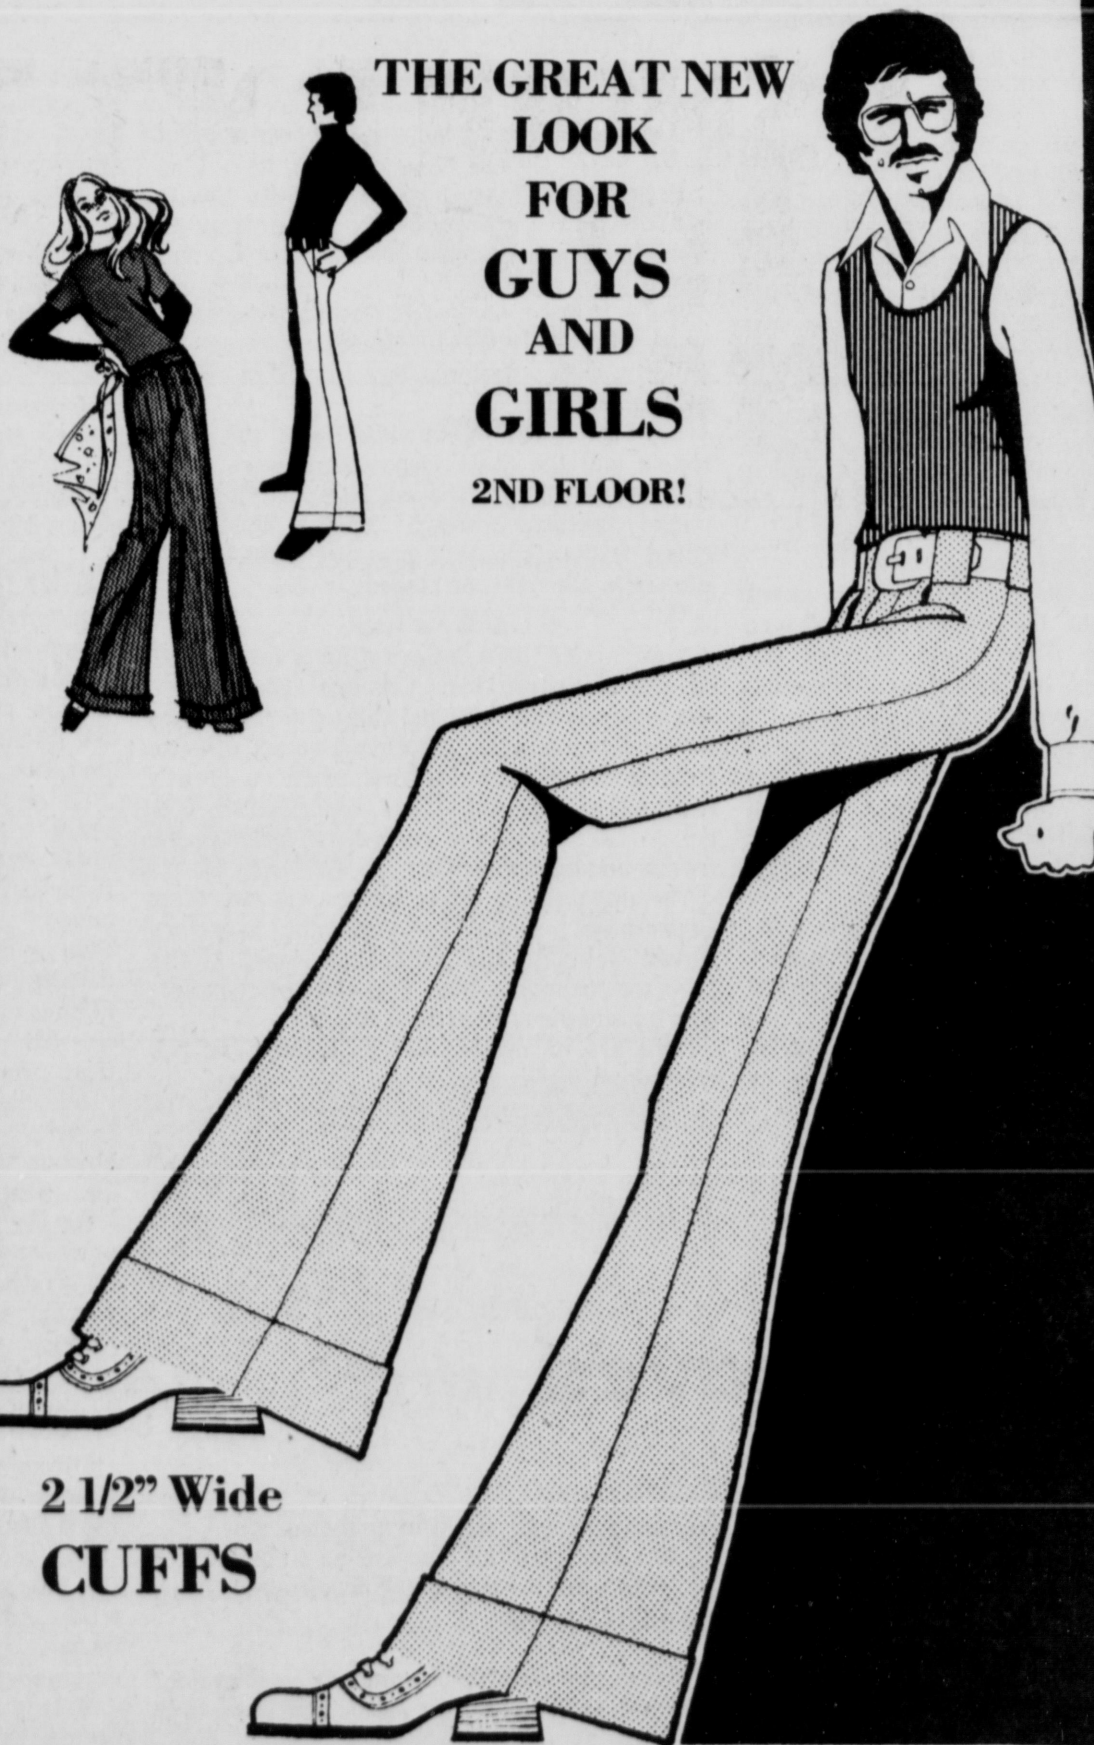

It is expected that some official decision will be made in special session this month.

Secretary Lewis Smith, at the request of resident Jim Price, revealed that the township received $3,000 in federal revenue sharing funds last year and it would be used to purchase land for the township.

A total of $871 has been received so far and will be used to resurface roads in the township.

Fuel shortage too sudden

There is little question but that our national obsession with gadgets and cars has been a major contributor to the present fuel shortage — that and the lack of a firm exploitation policy and guidelines to satisfy energy needs and the demands of an increasingly sensitive environment.

But it seems funny that the crisis hit so suddenly, especially after several years of lagging production by the big petroleum producers. Suddenly operating their refineries at 100 per cent of capacity, these same concerns were producing at barely 80 per cent a short year ago.

Then there are the actions of those same major producers in cutting off fuel supplies to independent dealers and, in an incredible string of "coincidences," an escalating series of crises in the big cities, who suddenly cannot find bidders for municipal fuel supplies, or who can find only one bidder per contract.

It all lends credence to the charge by Sen. Henry M. Jackson that the fuel crisis was orchestrated, if not engineered, by the major oil producers to eliminate competition from the independents (most of whom sell products at lower rates than the giants) to raise prices for petroleum products, to shake the wind from the sails of environmentalists and to stall the government's clean air program.

We suggest that this is an area the government could investigate profitably. Granted, we have been using up our energy stores at an alarming rate over the last few years. Warnings of fuel shortages have been sounded for the last five years or so by oil producers in their arguments for permission to explore for oil supplies in prescribed areas.

But to have the fuel shortage descend so precipitously is a little suspicious, particularly if you bear in mind that our escape valve — Mideastern oil — has become chancy only recently with the heating up of the Arab-Israeli guerrillas fracas. It all seems just a bit too pat.

We think there is great merit in cutting back on our consumption of fuel, but we also think there would be great merit in probing this fuel shortage. Power plays by big oil we don't like.

Mad as hatters?

The current graduation season was epitomized Wednesday by one of the oldest commencement traditions around — the middies of Annapolis, the cadets of West Point and the airmen of the Air Force Academy throwing their hats into the air.

One thing always bothered us about that annual sight, though — how does a cadet, midgie or airman get his hat back? Maybe he doesn't bother, and we couldn't blame him after wearing the dratted thing for four years.

But if a fellow wanted his hat back, to refresh his memories in the distant future or to show off to his grandchildren some day, he would be hard-pressed to recover the lid. (In fact, the cap probably would be hard-pressed itself by those hundreds of stomping feet as the new graduates stormed out of the stadium).

We can see it now — a forlorn figure, stooped with weariness, glumly probing the darkened ground by the light of the moon and a faltering flashlight, still searching for his hat at three in the morning. ("Six and five-eights — nope, I take a seven," he mumbles).

Of course, he might never get the chance at all. We've heard the groundskeepers do a tidy little business selling slightly used (and abused) caps to incoming freshmen in September. It would take a hardy grad to battle over his hat with a grizzled groundsman. If the story is true, that is. (Is it?)

Jim Bishop

What's it all about, Libbers?

Everybody is for Women's Liberation because a guy could get killed being against it. Of course I do not know what it means or what the ladies want to be liberated from, or even to. Sometimes I am beset by the nutty notion that if I listen to women, or read their magazines, something sensible is bound to come up.

I have just finished reading Catherine Breslin's "Waking Up From the Dream of Women's Lib" in a magazine called "Couples." This is so intelligently confusing that, when I meet my wife, we now shake hands. Listen:

"My married friends are cutting loose with affairs and divorces, dumping the kids on their husbands when they split, flying off to Europe to bum around like they wanted to 15 years ago, and I say well, of course, why not?"

Feet before food

Why not indeed? And don't forget to carry a gross of pills when you cross Italy. Miss Breslin bemoans a man who "had me trained to take off his shoes and massage his feet before he ate the French dinner I'd spent the day cooking." I would guess she had to pet his tootsies to keep him.

To find out how Women's Lib is making out Ms. Breslin interviewed 35 free women. Some were so free that they were in an agony of guilt. Seven were single; but 12 had given serious thought to killing themselves or their husbands.

Carla is petite, 28, divorced, and lives with a five-year-old son. She drives a cab. She won her husband David by camping on his apartment steps with little presents when she was 17. He finally married her to escape the draft. This marriage was made in heaven.

She joined a consciousness-raising group (CR), and the Lib girls told her that women are better people because they are in closer touch with their emotions. She left David. Now she feels that it is "far easier to be lonely and go to the movies."

See? You don't understand. "If Carla is sleeping with a man and it turns out he never happens to make breakfast for her, she crosses him off her list. But she still can't imagine being married without being bossed around." She sleeps with two 20-year-old boys. She calls them her "babies."

Then there is Georgia. She's a loud broad, 44, liberated nine years. She has three kids, can't wait until they grow up and walk out. Her complaint is that she had gone from her father's to her husband's house, always compromising and responsible, and all her life she wanted to say "this is me — all mine."

Now she can say it. Her husband is supporting his parents, a grandmother, a wife, an ex-wife and four kids. She's going to sue him for back support. Her college daughter, Annie, is living with a nice boy in Rochester. She, too, is liberated. Except for one thing: she's jealous. The kid can "see freedom working for her, but for her guy to be with another girl — she just couldn't accept that."

Brooke and Leona have broken marriages. They spend a lot of time explaining to each other how good it is. Eighty per cent of their friends have closed out their marriage mortgages. Endsville. Splitsville. Brooke feels that all marriages are good for five years. "There's a natural cut-off — you just get bored."

Brooke's CR group is sympathetic. "They knew exactly the guilt and panic she was going through, trying to find anybody she liked and grappling with hideous questions like do you go to bed on the first date."

Ingrid, on the other hand, has a super husband, super kids, a super house and a maid who won't quit. However, she's getting awfully tired of the kids "whomping" her when she comes home. She can turn the dog off, but not the kids. It's a great marriage, but she's planning to leave Gary in a couple of years. Of course, he doesn't know it — but that's Lib for you.

Fair exchange

Tish had a marriage going. Jed was a sweet guy, and one night he brought a cabdriver home. On impulse, Tish tossed Jed out the front door and kept the cabdriver. With, one would hope, the meter running.

I would guess that Catherine Breslin isn't happy with Women's Lib. "It took me nine wretched weeks to write," she says, "ending with three hours of hysterical tears; then it took me two more weeks to climb out of my black-pit mood."

"Friends asked what the hell was the matter and I couldn't say, except that I hadn't found what I'd expected and I hated what I'd found."

See? It's all so simple and direct. I can hardly wait to see the movie: "Last Tango in Teterboro"...

Pockmarks removed

I feel awful that my 4-year-old daughter has been left with two indentations after a recent bout with chicken pox.

She is so pretty, and I just hope they will disappear as her face gets bigger.

If not, can this be fixed?

Mrs. H.L., Pa.

Dear Mrs. L.:

The superficial pockmarks that are sometimes left after chicken pox undoubtedly tend to smooth out with time. Many of these facial scars and blemishes due to chicken pox, acne or injuries can now be removed or made less visible.

A technique known as dermabrasion is safely done with a high-speed rotary abrasive brush. After the skin is anesthetized, this "sandpapering" smooths the outer layers of the skin. When the healing follows and the scab falls off, a smooth surface replaces the slightly pitted area.

The method is highly successful. There is no need for you to be unduly concerned that your child will be scarred or marred.

I do a lot of gardening. More often than I like, I get a sharp pain in my eye if a leaf or a branch flicks past my eye.

What can be done about this?

Mr. E.W., N.J.

Dear Mr. W.:

My first thought, of course, is that you should wear protective goggles. The slight flick of a leaf or a branch can cause severe abrasion of the very delicate covering of the eye.

When neglected, infection can be introduced. Scarring can occur, and vision can be affected.

There are a number of excellent antibiotic and cortisone ointments which, when prescribed by the physician, are very effective. I emphasize that they should be prescribed by the physician because the exact extent of the injury should be noted.

Sometimes it is necessary to patch the eye for a few days to insure rapid and complete recovery.

If one's own doctor is not immediately available when such an injury occurs, it is wise to seek emergency help at the nearest community hospital. Special dyes can outline the extent of the abrasion, which is then minutely

Fuel and pollution

LAKE TAHOE, Nev. — The nation's governors are departing their 65th annual conference earnestly preaching a new order of priorities. It's a big change.

Put bluntly, it is: down with antipollution, up with energy development — and quick.

In their public statement, they don't say it quite that bluntly, but is obvious what they have in mind.

They want the federal government to make the creation of new energy sources a primary goal and make protection of the environment a secondary goal — for as long as necessary.

The governors will contend that these goals will be achieved in reasonable balance, but it was evident that they sensed the wrath of the distressed energy-users will be more powerful than the wrath of the distressed environmentalists.

They see trouble ahead — both economic and political trouble — and they don't intend to sit quietly and see the citizens of their states threatened with brownouts and blackouts and insufficient energy to warm their homes, harvest their crops, fuel their factories, run their automobiles and heat their schools. At least not without raising their voices and blaming somebody.

Sources of energy

This is why they are now saying that environmental factors must not be allowed to stand in the way of developing new sources of energy and expanding old ones to avert imminent shortages which could reach crisis proportion.

Example: Southern California Edison has not been able to start a major new power-plant project in four years. Six such projects were either blocked by environmentalists or bogged down in bureaucratic delay.

I do not believe I overstate the new determination of the governors to put solving energy scarcities first and coping with air and water pollution second.

The evidence is clear. In unanimously urging that new energy sources be brought into being in the next few years, the Democratic governors made no reference whatsoever to the environment, and the same was true when

Jack Anderson

Burundi horror

WASHINGTON — Far from the tumult of the American political campaign, in the African state of Burundi, the massacre of a quarter million people was reaching full horror a year ago.

From early May through August, the tall statuesque Tutsi nobility undertook the systematic slaughtering of their ethnic rivals, the Hutus.

Some Hutus managed to flee the country but most were not so fortunate. Men, women and children were murdered at a rate of more than a thousand a day.

In Washington, meanwhile, both the White House and the State Department were aware of the enormity of the carnage, but made no public protest. Instead, official Washington chose "quiet diplomatic pressure" which failed utterly to alleviate the tragedy.

U.S. sat back

Now, a year later, a special task force, funded by the prestigious Carnegie Endowment, has reconstructed the sad tale of U.S. inaction in the face of mass genocide. Project director Roger Morris, a former aide to Henry Kissinger on African affairs, describes the U.S. policy as "largely a record of indifference, inertia and irresponsibility."

The unpublished study singles out two State Department officials — Assistant Secretary David Newsom and Central African Affairs Director Herman Cohen — as the policymakers who "made the crucial decisions."

Here are its major charges against the two officials:

— The policy makers "rejected out of hand" a proposal to place an embargo on American imports of Burundian coffee, even though some sanction of Burundian coffee could have been used as a strong bargaining tool. U.S. coffee purchases account for 80 per cent of Burundi's export earnings. "The coffee proposal never received a serious hearing," the report charges. The proposal, in fact, was not even discussed informally with Folgers Coffee, the main purchaser of Burundian coffee. The Nixon Administration, however, would "have enjoyed ready access" to Folgers "had it tried," says the report. For former top White House aide Bryce Harlow was then in charge of government affairs for Procter and Gamble, the parent company of Folgers.

Adviser ignored

— The policymakers ignored their own legal adviser for African affairs, Keith Huffman, who advised stronger action. In mid-August, Huffman put his argument in writing in an internal memo. "While inaction in the face of a human rights crisis might be rationalized on the grounds of political expediency, such expedience cannot justify U.S. action..."

— The policy makers "repeatedly misled Congress." As one example, the Carnegie study notes that Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., was assured in mid-June that "the civil strife had ended." A week later, from Burundi, U.S. Charge d'Affaires Michael Hoyt described the killings as "selective genocide." And the killings continued unabated through August.

— The policymakers, overly cynical, knew from the start their "quiet diplomacy" had "little chance of relieving the tragedy." Adds the report: "Though that failure soon became obvious, policymakers then stood by for nearly four months while the killing went on."

Rather than make the "tough choice" and involve itself, the United States persisted to try to involve the Organization of African Unity, various African heads of state and the United Nations. "None of the efforts to involve the Africans was successful...U.S. officials were not particularly surprised by this failure."

'Routine' reaction

Throughout the summer, U.S. reaction to the killings was described by the State Department officials themselves as "routine."

The one bright spot in the U.S. handling of the Burundi killings occurred in early May when Ambassador Thomas Melady broke through red tape and got $100,000 worth of emergency aid for the Hutu victims.

Melady also arranged a "low-key" letter of protest from the Papal Nuncio. But three weeks later, incredibly, Melady was reassigned to Uganda, another African troublespot.

Footnote: We were unable to reach Assistant Secretary David Newsom for comment, but his subordinate, Herman Cohen, told us that the White House "was very much aware" of State Department policy toward Burundi. "We did what we thought was right," said Cohen. He added that he thought no policy — short of military intervention — could have stopped the killings.

Widening Rte. 715 suggested

Jackson residents worried over traffic

READERS — Jackson Township officials expressed concern Wednesday night that traffic flow may be hampered on Rte. 715 for their residents when a new truck stop opens in September.

Although in agreement that the two-lane Rte. 715 would not be able to accommodate both truck and regular resident traffic, the supervisors said their hands are tied because the truck stop is located in Pocono Township.

The officials' comments came after resident "Richie" Normyle asked the board to "get to work" now on the problem so residents don't have a hard time getting to work this fall.

Supervisor Dale Johnson said he expressed his concern to one of the Pocono Township Supervisors last week. He was hopeful that Pocono Township would take further action.

Contending that trucks pulling out onto the two-lane road would present a hazard to motorists, Johnson said he disagreed with highway officials that the road was adequate to carry traffic.

Johnson said he felt the road should be widened to four lanes with two of those lanes specifically designated for trucks.

He acknowledged that it was Jackson Township residents rather than those of Pocono Township who are going to have traffic problems on Rte. 715.

Also at the Wednesday night meeting, Sterling Miller and John Schierenbeck were reappointed to the planning commission.

Several residents expressed concern that they were not sprayed by the state for gypsy moths this year, although they were initially told their property would be included.

The residents complained, saying they didn't sign up in the township spray program because they thought the state would take care of it.

They asked what they could do. The supervisors suggested they call District Forester John Bitzer to explain they didn't get sprayed.

June Possinger complained about several trees that are due to be taken out along Rte. 488 when the township's road project is completed.

She asked the supervisors to check with the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation to see if the trees could be saved.

Stressing that they didn't like to remove trees either, the supervisors explained road right-of-way requirements by the highway department have increased.

They explained it was a PennDOT engineer's decision that the trees had to go. Since the project is financed by the state, the board said it had no other choice but to comply with the engineer's recommendations.

They agreed to contact the Allentown office of PennDOT, but felt certain they would have to be removed.

Board labels incineration possibility for Pike County

MILFORD — Pike County Commissioners have named incineration as one possible solution to the county's solid waste problem.

Commissioners explored the feasibility of a county incinerator Thursday with a representative from Zurn Industries, based in Erie.

Donald Robertson told commissioners two two-ton incinerators at an estimated cost of $600,000 could serve Pike County.

These incinerators would operate on a five-day week eight hours a day to consume the 65 tons of waste generated daily by county residents.

Zurn would provide all pollution controls and permits.

Commissioners called the proposed incinerators "almost smokeless," and said they "were more feasible than a landfill."

The incinerators would consume all but 10 per cent of the waste fed into them. The remaining refuse, which would resemble a junk pile, would be "biologically inert" and could be used as fill, Robertson told commissioners.

Commissioners noted with pleasure the incineration plant could be expanded or used at a lesser capacity as need demanded.

They estimate that rates presently charged waste haulers would remain the same — $5 to $6 a ton. With these rates, Commissioner Warner Depuy said, a return on the original investment could be made within a decade.

An added attraction, commissioners noted, was a "built-in crematory" for large animals.

Pike officials originally wanted to establish a county landfill, but have rejected the plan because of Department of Environmental Resources' restrictions.

There is one more solution under investigation, they said, which "we can't talk about yet."

In other business, commissioners asked for bids for repairs on the Owego Turnpike in Shohola Township and a new courthouse roof, to be opened June 21.

They also appointed John Karpiak of Lackawaxen Township to the county planning commission to fill the vacancy left by Sanford Beecher.

Paradise to build municipal office

SWIFTWATER — The Paradise Township Supervisors have received $13,692 from 1973 revenue sharing funds for use toward the purchase of land for a township municipal building.

Supervisor W. Jack Kalins said the board hopes to construct the new municipal building on a site in Paradise Valley.

Council elects chairman

STROUDSBURG — Bruce Hasleman of Leighton was elected chairman of the Tri-County Drug-Alcohol Council at a recent meeting of the board in Stroudsburg.

Also elected were Stephanie Millard of East Stroudsburg, vice chairman, and Mary Jane Shimko of Jim Thorpe, secretary.

The council, initiated and established via commission of the Governor's Drug-Alcohol Commission, is composed of 11 members from Monroe, Pike and Carbon counties. Dr. Bruce Duval is administrator of the clinic based on Main St., Stroudsburg.

Named to the bylaws committee were Andrew Weingartner of Stroudsburg, chairman; Mrs. Shimko, and James Colbert of Milford.

The council discussed proposals for a halfway house and the 1973-74 budget. Plans were also aired, proposing a "hotline" in the three counties, connecting the clinic of Stroudsburg, Monroe County, and Pike and Carbon counties.

Legislator proposes tax bill compromise

By JOHN L. MOORE
Ottawa News Service
Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — An upstate Democrat has called for a "middle of the road" tax relief package as he labeled Gov. Shapp's tax relief proposals as "inadequate" and a House GOP relief bill as "irresponsible."

And Kent Shelhamer, a Columbia County representative who has bucked his party in past budget and tax rights, said in an interview this week he may introduce legislation proposing a moderate tax relief plan.

Shelhamer said the House Republican bill, which passed Tuesday by a 108-86 vote, gives too much relief to business and not enough to the individual wage earner.

And the Governor's relief proposals give too little aid to both business and wage earners, Shelhamer said.

The House Republican bill has no chance of passing the Democratic-controlled Senate. The bill calls for flat exemptions on the first $2,000 earned by workers who pay state income tax. It also drops two business taxes: The corporate net income levy from 11 to eight per cent, and the capitol stock tax from 10 to seven per cent.

The Governor's proposals call for the income tax rate to decrease from 2.3 to 2.1 per cent, and the corporate levy to drop from 11 to 10 per cent.

What Shelhamer proposes

(and he sees his alternative as attractive to rank and file legislators in both parties) is a drop in the state income tax rate that surpasses Shapp's proposed decreases as well as a decrease in the corporate tax that does not go as far as the House Republican plan.

Shelhamer, maintaining that the people want tax relief this year, said the income tax rate should go from the current 2.3 per cent to 2.0 per cent. The corporate tax should go from 11 to nine per cent.

His compromise would be more generous than the "small amount" of relief Shapp offers individual wage earners, but smaller than the "large" degree of aid the GOP is extending to business.

"There's got to be a middle road," Shelhamer said.

He outlined his proposals in an interview while elaborating on remarks he made in a floor speech Tuesday while debating the GOP relief bill.

In the interview, he said his plan would give business and workers a total $223 million in relief, while the Shapp proposal would give considerably less ($206 million) and the Republican bill considerably more ($277 million).

Supplies reach Cambodia city

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A 10-ship convoy bringing desperately needed supplies of fuel and ammunition arrived in the Cambodian capital just after dark Thursday after a dash up the Mekong River from South Vietnam.

The convoy—seven tankers and three smaller cargo ships—made the 84-mile trip from the South Vietnamese border under heavy American air cover. Initial reports said none of the ships was damaged by Communist gunfire as has been the case in the past.

Two sailors on Cambodian gunboats escorting the convoy were wounded by small arms fire at a narrow bend in the river about 20 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, field reports said.

The reports said six government troops were killed and three wounded while clearing the east bank of the river in advance of the convoy suffered six killed and three wounded.

U.S. F111 fighter-bombers hit targets on the banks of the river as the convoy made its way upriver.

Patient within rights to refuse operation

EASTON, Pa. (UPI) — A 60-year-old state mental patient's refusal to undergo cancer surgery has been upheld by Northampton County Court here on grounds she "has the right to die."

Maida Yetter, a patient at the nearby Allentown State Hospital, had opposed the biopsy for possible breast cancer in a petition to the court, claiming her aunt had died of similar surgery.

Her petition was upheld Wednesday by Judge Alfred T. Williams, who ruled that the constitutional right of privacy "includes the right to die, with

Syrians repulse Israelis

DAMASCUS (UPI) — Syrian war planes Thursday twice repulsed Israeli warplanes attempting to penetrate Syrian airspace, a Syrian military spokesman said.

In a communique broadcast by Damascus radio, the spokesman said the Israeli planes attempted to penetrate Syrian airspace over the northern Mediterranean coastline.

The communique said Syrian warplanes and anti-aircraft weapons intercepted the Israeli planes and forced them to flee west.

It was the first reported Israeli attempt to enter Syrian airspace since Jan. 8.

Railroad eroding to creditors

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An attorney for trustees of the bankrupt Lehigh Valley Railroad told a federal judge Thursday the 127-year-old tri-state carrier was now eroding the interest of creditors at a rate of $800,000 a month.

William Traub told U.S. District Court Judge John P. Fullam that the petitioners were in court to protect the property rights of the creditors.

Trustees of the Lehigh Valley, which has been under reorganization since July 1970, claimed that operations of the 956-mile line could be absorbed by immediate competitors, including the bankrupt Reading and Central of New Jersey railroads.

Fullam, who is overseeing Lehigh reorganization, in addition to handling the same chores for the giant Penn Central, rejected a motion by New Jersey Deputy Attorney General John Sheridan to dismiss the trustees' petition, which set a shutdown date of no later than Oct. 1.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, in the person of Commissioner Chester M. Wiggin, read a statement into the record requesting the court to deny the trustees' petition and not to order liquidation of the railroad at this time.

William C. Wieters, Lehigh vice president of operations, said the carrier's 1972 car-loadings totaled 346,000, an increase of 38,000 in comparison with 1970. He attributed the boost to the acquisition of the Lehigh & Susquehanna Railroad last year and north-south traffic picked up from the Reading and Delaware & Hudson.

Priddy fires attorney

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jerry Priddy, former major league baseball player accused of trying to extort $250,000 from a cruise ship line with bomb threats, fired his lawyer Thursday.

Priddy, who was arrested Tuesday night near the ransom "drop," hired as his new attorney Paul Caruso, a well-known criminal lawyer.

The ousted attorney, Karl Ransom, said "all bets are off" concerning his pledge to have Priddy record a voiceprint so it could be compared with recordings made of the extortionist.

Although Priddy has yet to enter a plea, Ransom had said his client was innocent.

"I really doubt he did this," said a neighbor, Alice Spizman.

Teen Forum

Can't date at 15

By Jean Adams

AT 15: (Q.) Billy likes me and I like him. The problem is he wants to go on regular dates like riding around or going to a movie. My mom says I am too young to date. Billy says I'm too protected and my mom is too strict.

Myself, I think she's very nice and stuff. But at 15 don't you think I'm old enough to go places like movies and stuff? Billy is 17.

In Between in Texas

(A.) Billy should not criticize your parents even if he thinks they are wrong. Many parents permit 15-year-old daughters to go out on regular dates, but some do not, and when those are the rules a daughter should obey them.

You could lessen the tension, however, by working for an agreement with your parents that Billy can visit you at home now, with their welcome and cooperation, and that you can start going out on dates after your 16th birthday. Another good idea is a boy friend or boy friends nearer your own age.

STUDYING: (Q.) I am afraid I won't be able to graduate next year. I am passing everything but English, and my grade in it is a big red F. I am planning to go to summer school to try to make it up. Will you tell me how to study?

Very Low in Louisiana

(A.) The right way to study is to DO it. Many students who have trouble passing their courses just do not study. They do not have regular set times to study, and when they get around to it they don't concentrate. The result is that they get no studying done.

Set at least one hour each day to study your English course. Do it at the same time each day. No visitors, no record playing, no TV, no radio, no phone calls, no gazing out the window. Concentrate.

Then when the study session is over go out and have fun.

MAKEUP: (Comment) This is only a comment, not a question. It concerns girls 12 to 14 using makeup. If you ask me, they don't have to, because at that age a natural look is a lot nicer than makeup.

If they would only realize their natural beauty, they would be much better off, and prettier too.

I read your column all the time.

Male, Age 14, in Pennsylvania

(A.) I'm glad you qualified your remarks by saying "at that age." Most girls past 14 look more attractive with a little help.

TELLING HER: (Q.) Ever since I met my girl friend I've loved her. How do I tell her that I love her? I am sort of shy.

15 in Florida

(A.) Write a note. Put three words in it, "I love you," plus your name. Put it in an envelope with your girl friend's name on the front. Take it with you when you visit her. As you say goodbye, give the envelope to her and ask her not to open it until after you leave

Callahan honored as teacher

EAST STROUDSBURG — Joseph P. Callahan, instructor of education and a teacher in the Campus Learning Center at East Stroudsburg State College, has been named an Outstanding Elementary Teacher of America for 1973.

Persons selected were nominated by their principals earlier this year, and they were selected for this honor on the basis of their professional and civic achievements.

Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America is an annual awards program honoring distinguished men and women for their exceptional services, achievements and leadership in the field of elementary education. Each year, the biographies of those honored are featured in the awards volume, "Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America."

These educators are now eligible to receive the Outstanding Elementary Teacher of the Year award trophy. Five $500 unrestricted grants will be awarded to the schools represented by America's five Outstanding Elementary Teachers.

Distinguished judges, along with the board of advisors, will select the five individual elementary teachers to be honored. In this way, the program thanks the teacher and the school for their contributions to the continuing excellence of American education.

Callahan joined the instructional staff of the Campus Learning Center after receiving the bachelor of science degree in elementary education from East Stroudsburg State College.

He was most recently awarded the master of education degree from East Stroudsburg in May commencement exercises.

Callahan, a former resident of Carbondale, now resides at Lake Valhalla Estates.

Youth's community

What can you do?

By TOM SHEPSTONE

How many of you who are still in school have plans to stay in or return to this area in your adult years?

Have you given any thought to the kind of community that you want to make your home in someday?

Will there be a job for you, a place for your family to live and opportunities for recreation?

How could you start now to help make your community what you'd like it to be a few years from now? Well, there are many ways and many things that you might do right now even if you're not yet of voting age!

Youth have participated in the planning of their communities in many areas and there are several possibilities for you to do something here in this county. Some have already started!

A group of young people is presently helping the Environmental Action Committee conduct its newspaper recycling program. Girl Scouts have been conducting a drive of their own. A group of Boy Scouts is helping to clean up some of the county's highways.

These are good starts and there are even greater opportunities. A Pike County Township Planning Commission is considering a complete plan for future growth and is looking for young people to help gather the background information and produce the plan. Here is a great opportunity for young people to actually help plan the communities they will be owning in a short time.

Another opportunity is with the Monroe County Environmental Action Committee. This group is looking for more people to help with its recycling program and is even willing to pay them for their help. They are also willing to help with the youth establish clean-up programs and start other recycling projects.

A different approach might be for you to form a club or work through a school class or some established organization to gather background information on your community. Information on history, land use and population are all important to planning community activities.

Once you have gathered some information such as a photographic record of junkyards in your community, you could present it to some civic organization for use or use it to make plans for some activities on your own.

In any action you might choose to help plan your community you need to first get together or form the groups to work with. Explore possibilities of setting up community Development Clubs in school or during the evenings. Ask teachers and club leaders what you might do as a group.

If you want suggestions or need help or want to make suggestions, call or write us at the Monroe County Extension Office in the Post Office Building, Stroudsburg, Pa. The telephone number is 421-2600. We will be continuing to fill you in on what's going on with youth in the area in the future.

The Clarence Daniels came home to a '73 Ford LTD Brougham because behind the beautiful looking outside, is a beautiful driving inside.

Can a city family of four find happiness on the highway in a two-door car?

The Clarence Daniels of Newark did. Their 1973 LTD Brougham is a whole lot of car, inside and out, front and back, on crowded city streets and on the open road. And it looks it.

"My biggest problem," says Mr. Daniels, "is getting my friends to believe it's a Ford. 'Why'd you go and get a big Lincoln or Thunderbird?' they ask me. Until they get up close."

It's the kind of a problem a car owner doesn't mind having. Especially when the car handles like a quiet dream in city traffic as well as on the highway. And offers real stretch-out legroom for driver and passengers.

As the Daniels' daughter, Carol, a teacher and six feet of strong-minded woman, puts it: "A lot of big cars are awkward, but the Brougham handles very well. And I just kind of dig the luxury."

Motor Trend Magazine selected the 1973 Ford LTD Brougham as their Full-Size Sedan of the Year. So did the Clarence Daniels. Check it out at your local dealer. Come on home.

7 students get Moravian degrees

BETHLEHEM — Seven area students received bachelor of arts degrees on Sunday from Moravian College.

They are David K. Crane, 411 N. Eighth St., Stroudsburg, history-political science; Timothy S. Gilman, 270 Ledge Lane, Buck Hill Falls, English-social science; Gary L. Hamill, 217 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg, sociology; Shelia J. Haydt, Kunkletown R. D. 1, psychology; Lynn C. Hunsicker, 156 Berwick Heights Rd., East Stroudsburg, psychology; Terrence B. Snyder, East Stroudsburg R. D. 1, English, and John E. Stahler, Stroudsburg R. D. 1, economics.

Berta M. Taffinger, 534

Queen St., Stroudsburg, received a bachelor of science degree in biology.

Crane, a son of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Crane, was a member of Sigma Phi Omega social fraternity and vice president of the Dormitory Council. He played varsity soccer and received honorable mention in the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Gilman, selected for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" and "Who's Who Among American Student Leaders," is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Gilman.

He was a member and historian of Beta Lambda Chi social fraternity, president of International Club, member of Student Activities Committee, member of the House Committee, editor-in-chief and photographer of the Benigna (college yearbook), assistant editor and photographer of the Comenian (college newspaper), member of the Publications Board and received honorable mention in the Annual Moravian Student Photography Contest. He played varsity soccer three years and intramural sports.

Miss Haydt, a dean's list student four semesters, was vice president and secretary of Phi Mu Epsilon social sorority, the Women's Activities Committee and the Inter-Sorority Council. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert E. Haydt.

Hunsicker, a dean's list student, is a son of Dr. L. W. and

Dr. M. T. Hunsicker. He was a member of Phi Alpha Theta national honorary society for history, member of Psychology Club, was tapped for the Triangle Honor Society, participated in the Model U. N. Conference at Harvard, attended Eastern Psychological Association in Washington, D. C., prepared a paper for the Psi Chi Colloquium and was a psychology lab assistant.

Stahler was a member of the Russian Club. He is employed as a programmer for Pocono Data Processing in Stroudsburg.

Miss Taffinger, a dean's list student two semesters, is the daughter of Mrs. Bertha Taffinger. She was a member of the college choir.

Ann Landers

Overweight wife

Dear Ann Landers: Last Valentine's Day I came very close to asking my wife for a divorce. Why? Because she has been grossly overweight for the past eight years and I am sick of it. She goes for every diet that comes along, takes pills and insists she is "trying." She is "trying" all right—everything and anything but cutting down on her eating. She has something in her mouth all day long.

We are both in our middle 30s, although she looks older. I still have all my hair and can get into my wedding trousers, in case you are wondering. Although I'm no Burt Reynolds I keep getting "come-hither" looks from some very cute chicks in the office. To my wife's credit, we have good kids and she's a better-than-average cook. The house looks O.K. and I have no other complaints except her weight.

A woman who would rather give in to her taste-buds than please her husband lets the world know he is not very important to her. This hurts. Do I have a right or not?

Leaving It Up To You

Dear Leaving: A right to what? Start kanoodlin' around with one of those cute chicks in the office? Sounds like this is what you're after.

I am not making excuses for your wife, but plenty of husbands love their fat wives and plenty more cheat on thin ones, so don't delude yourself.

I hope, for her sake, that your wife will get some counseling and find out why she has to have something in her mouth all day long. It could be the beginning of a better life for both of you.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently someone asked what to do about a former neighbor who drinks, calls her on the phone, and talks and talks. Well, I think I'm the neighbor who drinks, so please hear me out.

I know I make a pest of myself but sometimes I get so lonesome I can't stand it.

Your suggestion that "Former Neighbor" get an unlisted number is not practical. Celebrities may find it convenient to be incomunicado, but the average person wants to be reached. How much better to tell the drunk (when she is sober) exactly how you feel about the calls. I can almost guarantee that the embarrassment will be so great that even if she is thoroughly sloshed she will remember and there will be no more calls. Sign me—

Been There And Trying To Get Back

Dear B.T. And Trying: Not all drunks behave the same way. Some become totally uninhibited—couldn't care less if they bother people. Others don't remember anything, and so on. But I'm sure your suggestion would work for some. (P.S. Hang in there, honey.)

I-80 revamping program scheduled

HARRISBURG — A seven million dollar repair project of Interstate 80 in Monroe and Carbon Counties will begin in 1974, according to highway officials.

Improvements on the highway will be made in accordance with new building and design standards, said Charles Zinavage of the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation's Allentown office.

The length of I-80 in Monroe County is "vintage," Zinavage said and needs extensive improvement.

The interstate will receive full freeway lighting in the Stroudsburgs and complete lighting of all interchanges in the county.

Under newly-enacted policy, PennDOT will be responsible for the maintenance of the lighting fixtures. Until now, local governments took care of the lights.

Improvements on I-80 will also include a variety of changes in median strips and shoulder repairs, a truck climbing lane from Scotrun to I-81E on I-80 westbound and longer speed change lanes.

Removing roadside hazards such as walls along the highway and installation of deer and right-of-way fences are also part of the proposed project.

Funds for the project, to be culled from repair monies included in the state budget, should be forthcoming, Zinavage said. "We don't anticipate any money problem," he said.

Chief nominated

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Chief Dan George, nominated for an Oscar in "Little Big Man," will star in "Wild Oats and Indian" for Cinema Systems.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Rinker
(Lawrence Studio)

Rinkers' open house for 50th anniversary

EAST STROUDSBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Grant Rinker of 10½ Ehler, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house at their home on Sunday, June 10, from 2 to 4 p.m. to which friends and relatives are invited.

The former Mildred Bonser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bonser of Bossardsville, and Grant Rinker, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rinker of Reeder, were married June 6, 1923, in the parsonage of the Zion United Church of Christ, by Rev. Frank Blatt.

They have lived in this area most of their lives except for 16 years when they were transferred to Sunbury by the Bell Telephone Co. for whom Mr. Rinker worked until his retirement in 1962.

They have a daughter, Vera Marie Cyphers, and three grandchildren.

St. Luke's Festival set for August

STROUDSBURG — the date has been set for the second annual St. Luke's Parish Summer Festival. It will be held Sunday, Aug. 12 from 1 to 8 p.m. at Knights of Columbus picnic grounds.

Mrs. Bernard Frantz, chairman, has set up all her committees who have been working on plans for the affair which will follow the general format of last year's successful party.

Tired of penny-pinching meals? How about something extravagant! Shrimp, for example.

Even though shrimp seems like a luxury food, our savory Italian Shrimp Marinara will cost you about 75 cents a serving . . . and only 310 calories, including the macaroni! That's because shrimp is such a bargain, calorically speaking, you can afford to dress it up with a little pasta.

Calorie conscious cooking

Italian shrimp marinara only seems extravagant!

Our recipe is extra easy, but there's no short-cutting on the shrimp. Most shrimp-with-pasta recipes are shrimp-shy but heavy on the starchy stuff! Not this one:

Shrimp Marinara with Macaroni
1/2 cup sliced onions
16 ounce can tomatoes in puree
1 cup water
4 cups tender-cooked macaroni
Salt and Pepper
2 tablespoons extra-sharp Romano cheese

Combine onions, tomatoes, water, seasonings, cheese and shrimp in a saucepan. Cover and simmer over low heat 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Uncover and continue to simmer until liquid is reduced to a sauce consistency. Serve over tender-cooked macaroni. Makes four servings, 310 calories each.

Luckily for most waistline-watchers, shrimp is slimming — only 410 calories per pound, compared with 1,800 or more for "prime ribs." And shrimp really isn't as expensive as prime marbled steaks and roasts, particularly if you buy the smaller shrimp.

This week, for example, one nationwide supermarket chain in the New York area was charging $2.40 for a 20-ounce bag of frozen cleaned small shrimp . . . or the equivalent of $1.96 per pound. And shrimp is all "meat," while an equivalently priced piece of beef may be half bone and fat.

Be a smart shopper and compare the price of cleaned shrimp and shrimp-in-the-shell carefully. Don't overlook the fact that uncleaned shrimp is one-third waste.

Normally, shrimp-in-the-shell should cost you less per edible pound than ready-to-cook shrimp . . . but not always! In the supermarket cited above, small shrimp in the shell was $2.19 per pound, 23 cents more than the cleaned shrimp. Moreover, after shelling, you'd have only two thirds of a pound left, so the actual price of the shell-it-yourself variety was $3.27 per pound compared with the $1.96 per pound for the ready-to-cook shrimp!

The moral is: Check prices carefully, and don't forget the waste factor!

Quig recital

STROUDSBURG — A music recital by the pupils of Lucy Quig will be held on Wednesday, June 13, at the Zion United Church of Christ, Stroudsburg, at 7:30. There will be solos, duets, and two-piano numbers as well as music by the band.

Lionettes set awards for students

POCONO SUMMIT — The Pocono Lionettes will present student awards to four area school seniors.

At a meeting held at Johnny's Pocono Summit Inn, Pocono Summit, club members voted to give a yearly student award to the most improved seniors at Pocono Mountain High School and Pocono Central Catholic.

Student award committee members are Mrs. Coramae Dyson, Mrs. Midge Lisa and Mrs. Dolly Ingetti.

Mrs. Ann Paquin, Mrs. Emily Carter and Mrs. Gertrude Quinn were winners in a contest held at the meeting.

Entertainment at Pleasant Valley Manor

SNYDERSVILLE — The merry month of May was climaxed for some residents of Pleasant Valley Manor, when joining with residents of Stroud Manor visited Pioneer Lodge.

There was singing, dancing and refreshments. For those unable to attend, Kenneth Heckman provided entertainment at Pleasant Valley Manor on June 6.

Other special activities during the second half of the month included the appearance of the Pleasant Valley High School Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Raymond Vanderslice on May 18 with a musical welcome to the summer that seemed so long in arrival.

On May 22, Miss Deborah Gasdek brought the East Stroudsburg Choralists to provide musical diversion with the aid of several soloists and many current popular tunes. This was the first visit for the Choralists and they were invited for a return visit.

These special entertainments were in addition to the afternoon of entertainment provided by Del Rae, night club entertainer and recording artist.

Mrs. Randall Myron Wittig

Newlyweds to spend three years on mission

MADISONVILLE, Ky. — Miss Sarah Elizabeth Metcalfe of Madisonville, Ky., and Randall Myron Wittig of Henryville, who were married on May 19, plan to spend the next three years working with the International Ministry of Campus Crusade for Christ in Buenos Aires, Argentina, S.A.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roberts Metcalfe of Madisonville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Robert Wittig of R.D. 1, Henryville.

They were married in the First United Methodist Church in Madisonville with Rev. Alan Taylor Jr. of Reeder performing the double ring ceremony.

The altar was decorated with a background of emerald leaves, baskets of white chrysanthemums and snapdragons, flanked by spiraled candelabra.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Finke original gown ivory silk organza, appliqued with re-embroidered lace, accented with seed pearls. It was styled with Victorian neckline, lantern sleeves and a full cathedral train bordered by lace. A lace Juliet cap held her veil and she carried a cascade of gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Georgianna Nisbet of Madisonville was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Sara Jo Wood of Greenville, Ky., and Miss Mary Mason Metcalfe, sister of the bride. They wore long gowns of pale pink chiffon with ivory collars and cuffs trimmed in matching lace and carried cascades of pink roses, purple statice and babies breath.

William A. Thomas of Philadelphia was best man. Ushers were Daniel Cecil, Springfield, and Harold Bowman of Deland, Fla. Duncan and Thomas L. Metcalfe, brothers of the bride, also served as ushers and lighted the candles.

The bride is a graduate of Madisonville-North Hopkins High School and the University of Kentucky. This last year she has been working with the Campus Crusade for Christ, Springfield, Mass.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Pocono Mountain High School and Nyack Missionary College, Nyack, N.Y. He has been associated with the International Ministry Campus Crusade for Christ, Philadelphia.

After a wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains, Tenn., the couples are spending a few weeks in the Pocono Mountains and Madisonville Ky., before leaving for Argentina.

Out of town guests attending were Mrs. Alan Taylor and children of Reeder; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Abeel, Stroudsburg; and Rev. and Mrs. Eugene Wittig, Greenwood, Ind.

Camp Moll names new director

MOUNT BETHEL — Mrs. William Reed of Washington, N. J. has been elected new camp director of the Robert F. Moll Camp for the handicapped located at Mount Bethel. The camp will open July 2 and continue through Aug. 10.

Many new features have been added including the new arts and crafts building and the swimming pool. Applications have been distributed through the schools and many replies have already been returned. All applications should be returned today.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mary D. Gearhart, 1712 Pokona Ave., Stroudsburg, Tel. 421-7226.

Donations being sought for auction

GILBERT — The Western Pocono Junior Women's Club is combing the West End for articles which residents wish to dispose of which can be used for their auction and bazaar to be held July 7 at the West End Fairgrounds.

Those wishing to contribute any type of articles for the auction may call Mrs. Edward Sawyer, 992-4963; Mrs. Matthew Held, 215 681-4646 or Mrs. Leona Smith, 629-0510.

The bazaar will be held Saturday, July 7 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. with the auction to begin at 2 p.m. with Richard Seidof as auctioneer.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Although they may have earned it the hard way, there are certain prerequisites which the chairmen of past Community Chest fund campaigns undoubtedly enjoy.

One of them must be the dinner at Buck Hill when, joined by the wives who have been entertained with a book review, they are the guests of the Inn.

The other must be the chance to get to know better the young men coming on to take their places as shakers and movers. And their pretty young wives. Maybe one of the schemes they suggested didn't work in 1953 but maybe it will in 1973, and in the process of trying, those same young men are also going to get to know a whole lot of people a whole lot better, the workers, the achievers, the givers.

Meanwhile everybody had a spectacular view of the approaching storm at the cocktail party in the terrace which moved inside, shrimp, pigs in blanket, and all, without a break in the conversation.

Specially warm were the greetings being given Mrs. Clifford Gillam who had missed the past few dinners, and looking very handsome in a long green dinner suit. Long dresses are definitely "in" this year for any after-six event, and they do add a touch of elegance.

Speaking of elegance, I expect the men attending the Historical Society's summer outing on Saturday will be looking pretty elegant, too, since they have been asked to wear old-fashioned costumes.

They certainly will if they can borrow the type of Edwardian elegance their sons have been wearing as members of the weddings these days: velvet collars, ruffled shirts, high-heeled shoes and all.

Car crazy

At the awards assembly this year, I fully expected the principal to ask for complete silence, signal for a drum roll and announce, "This year, the school's highest award, the solid gold millstone, goes to the only boy in the senior class who rode a bicycle to school."

Amid thunderous applause, the entire auditorium would rise to its feet as a body while my son approached the stage, dragging his three-speed behind him like a cross.

The principal would then put his arm around his shoulder and announce, "Of course we are proud of our valedictorian and our salutatorian, but no one has more respect for his gut-courage than the class pedestrian!"

"This sounds dramatic. But if the testimony of our son is true (and we have every reason to doubt it) he is the only boy in North America who served out his final year without benefit of an automobile.

According to him, every other boy in the free world between the ages of 16-19 fell into a group:

(a) Boys who were building their own car.

(b) Boys who were buying their own car.

(c) Boys whose parents gave them a car for not biting their fingernails.

(d) Boys who borrowed their parents' car when they were running late (from 1969-73).

(e) Boys whose bicycles were being repaired (waiting for parts to come in from behind the Iron Curtain countries).

I don't want to take anything away from the class pedestrian, but frankly, as a parent, I don't think I could live through the hassle again.

Every morning, we engaged in a daily divorce to see who got custody of the car. He spoke first.

"I need the car because I have a dental appointment and my bike will scratch your trunk. Also because I can't carry my science project which is a reconstructed dinosaur. In addition, Ralph Nader is recalling my foot pedal and I almost got run off the road yesterday by a drunken driver and I lost the chain and my bike will be stolen and the tire is flat and it is supposed to rain this afternoon. Besides, no one rides a bike to school but the teachers."

One morning, I was even on the verge of breaking down (and in) and muttered, "I am going crazy."

Are you ready for this? He offered to drive me there when he got home from school.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Your Horoscope

Frances Drake

March 21 to April 20 (ARIES) — Hold to a well-directed course. Some storm clouds are brewing, but the ingenious Arien will weather them smartly. Keep emotions under stern control.

April 21 to May 21 (TAURUS) — A thorough reappraisal of recent activities can be the basis for highly improved future planning. Don't stymie yourself through outmoded ideas, methods. Be progressive.

May 22 to June 21 (GEMINI) — New opportunities indicate in many fields — but especially where monetary interests are concerned. A splendid time for consolidating your position in this respect.

June 22 to July 23 (CANCER) — What is expedient may not be the best for all concerned, so be careful of the route you select. Take nothing for granted.

July 24 to August 23 (LEO) — You can make unusual progress in many areas now. Get your mind clicking early, and in tune with present trends.

August 24 to September 23 (VIRGO) — Good stellar influences favor a new approach to difficult problems, consolidation of gains made in the past. Start looking now — for improved returns.

September 24 to October 23 (LIBRA) — Sidestep any activity that could hamper your forward movement. You may encounter unexpected situations now; much good, too.

October 24 to November 22 (SCORPIO) — It's up to you to do all in your power to make this a satisfactory day. Splendid Mars influences encourage active-mindedness, business interests and finances.

November 23 to December 21 (SAGITTARIUS) — You could be tempted now to turn from a profitable to a more confused course. Consider the whole picture. Avoid the pitfalls of heedlessness and haste.

December 22 to January 20 (CAPRICORN) — Mixed influences, mixed possibilities. How you react to opposition and unexpected situations will tell the tale.

January 21 to February 19 (AQUARIUS) — Don't wait too long before making up your mind in matters where the time element is important. Highly favored: Art, travel and literary interests.

February 20 to March 20 (PISCES) — You should feel optimistic now, and this fact alone will make it easier to induce others to go along with you. But be willing to listen to their ideas, too.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great inner strength and a sense of stability often lacking in Gemini. You are studious, discriminating and progressive in your viewpoint.

Bidding quiz

Some bidding sequences are regarded as impossible — that is, you can't have a hand that fits the bid or bids you've made. In each of the following five cases, specify whether South's last bid is Possible or Impossible:

1. North East South West
1♥ Dble	Redble 1♠
Pass	Pass
2. North East South West
1♠ Pass	2♠ Pass
3♠ Pass	Pass
3. South West North East
1 NT Pass	2♦ Pass
3 NT	Pass
4. South West North East
1♠ Pass	1♥ Pass
1♠ Pass	2 NT Pass
Pass	Pass
5. North East South West
1♠ Pass	1♠ Pass
2♥ Pass	Pass

1. Impossible. The redouble announces 10 or more points and South must therefore bid over a spade, since his side is practically sure to have at least 24 points of the 40 in the deck. Note also that North's hand is unlimited; he could have excellent values and pass one spade on the assumption that the bidding will not suddenly and unexpectedly die.

2. Impossible. North is probing for a game, possibly a slam, and cannot suddenly be left high and dry. The least South can do is bid three spades.

3. Impossible. South has 16 to 18 points and has represented them by his notrump bid. When North announces a weak hand by bidding two diamonds — for example, with:

4 J84 ♥ 6 ♦ J97643 ♣ J52

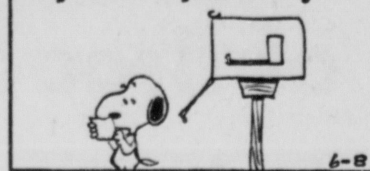

South cannot have a proper three notrump bid. Either has opening bid was wrong or his rebid is wrong. Together, the bids are irreconcilable.

4. Impossible. Consistent with the theory that jump bids by responder are forcing, South must bid again. The two notrump bid announces 13 to 15 points though it may occasionally have only 12. Of course partners may arrange to treat two notrump here as non-forcing and showing only 11 points, but that is not the method usually played.

5. Possible. Having bid his suits in reverse order, North is showing a good hand with a least 17 points. However, South may pass with 6 points. North's bids are roughly equivalent in strength to: 1♠-1♠-3♠ or 1♠-1♠-3♠, and South may exercise his constitutional privilege to pass.

Recreation areas lacking money

By GAIL NEVINS

Lack of federal funds threatens the future of U.S. recreation areas, according to the National Audubon Society.

Explanation of that statement was made in a recent Audubon news release:

On paper, 1972 looked like a vintage year for the nation's outdoor recreation plans, but the truth is that the federal government isn't providing the money needed to turn the plans into real national seashores, parks and recreation areas.

Writing in a spring issue of Audubon magazine, Marvin Zeldin, conservation consultant, noted that the Congress and the Administration last year, with much fanfare, "authorized" almost a half billion dollars for acquisition and development of recreational lands. But, he said, actual fund appropriations so far have been woefully short and the Administration hasn't even been willing to spend all of those amounts.

The situation is being blown up to emergency proportions, Zeldin declared, because there is already a two-and-a-quarter billion dollar backlog for acquisition and development of recreational lands that had been authorized as far back as 1960 and that are still not fully funded.

Among the "paper" parks and natural areas added in 1972 were the San Francisco Bay National Wildlife Refuge, San Francisco's Golden Gate National Recreation Area and its New York counterpart, the Gateway National Recreation Area; Tinicum National Environmental Center (Philadelphia), and the Buffalo National River (Arkansas).

Meanwhile, says Zeldin, the Council on Environmental Quality reports that none of the new national parks authorized in the last six years — Redwood in California, North Cascades in Washington, Guadalupe Mountains in Texas, Voyageurs in Minnesota — is as yet adequately staffed and some are not yet ready for visitors. Yet the recreation demand continues to grow, with visits to all National Park service units alone increasing by 80 per cent from 121-million in 1965 to 201-million in 1971.

Congress began to recognize the past problem of financing federal acquisition of recreation lands back in 1964, Zeldin explained, and created the Land and Water Conservation Fund which would derive its funding from various related tax revenues, 60 per cent of the fund was to go for grants to state and local governments; 40 for federal acquisition of federal recreation areas.

However, despite Congressional hikes in the fund from $100-million in 1964 to $300-million in 1970, the fund has proven inadequate to meet the rising needs. And now Zeldin charges, the belt-tightening Administration has made the problem even worse by refusing to use all of the money that is available from the fund, freezing $73-million in Congressional appropriations for federal land acquisitions and $222 million for state and local government grants.

In the Administration's 1974 budget request, only $55.2

million was asked from the fund, thus giving rise to speculation that the Administration might be quietly attempting to terminate it. Not a single new dollar, said Zeldin, is asked for federal park and recreation area purchases for 1974, though some previously appropriated but unobligated money will be made available.

Pa. drivers unimpressed by gas shortage warnings

HARRISBURG (UPI)—Pennsylvania drivers appear to be unimpressed by the constant warnings of a gasoline shortage and pleas for them to conserve fuel by slowing down.

At least that's the way state police officers — who are perhaps in the best position to make such a judgment — see it. And if anyone is worried about the state forcing drivers to slow down by lowering the speed limit, indications are their fears are unjustified.

Officials have said motorists can save one gallon of gas out of 10 if they drive at 60 miles an hour in 70 mph zones and even more if they drive under 60 mph.

The U.S. Senate, in fact, has approved a resolution urging states to reduce all speed limits in excess of 50 miles per hour either by 10 mph or down to a maximum of 55.

According to State Police officers who patrol Pennsylvania's major highways, legislative action may be necessary because drivers are not slowing down voluntarily.

Capt. Mauro Forte, commander of State Police Troop T, which patrols the Turnpike's 470 miles, asked troopers at the Turnpike substations if motorists seem to be driving slower.

Capt. John W. Dussia, commander of Troop S in Milesburg, which is in charge of stations that patrol almost 1,450 miles of Interstates 79, 80, and 81, also said motorists have not slowed down.

"The same seems true with the gas shortage. Ordinarily, unless we have a dire emergency, people don't pay too much attention to these pronouncements."

The pair said they would support legislation reducing the speed limit.

Mosquito control urged

STROUDSBURG — Warning a variety of encephalitis has been traced in the Monroe County area, a Department of Environmental Resources (DER) spokesman Thursday urged the Monroe County Commissioners toward mosquito control.

Dale Williams, DER vector control consultant from Kingston, promised to design a program for one control agent and one vehicle to give Monroe County a start on mosquito control.

"We would eventually like to see three counties enter into an association — with Wayne and Pike County supported by the Camping Association, the Vacation Bureau and land developers," Williams said.

He said $56,000 has been appropriated for flood stricken counties in the state's northeast region and a bill will be introduced in the General Assembly calling for $500,000 to fund control projects.

"Monroe, Wayne and Pike counties are about the three worst counties for mosquitoes," Williams said. "I can't ever see the state giving money unless you get going on your own."

He said he would assist in the training of a control agent and a specially equipped vehicle might be available for Monroe County next year.

Williams said the period of "larvacide" is over for this season — the best time to kill being in early April.

He suggested only temporary relief through fogging could be provided now.

"I think counties and municipalities would be more willing to act if they knew what action to take," said Mrs. Nancy B. Shukatis, commission chairman.

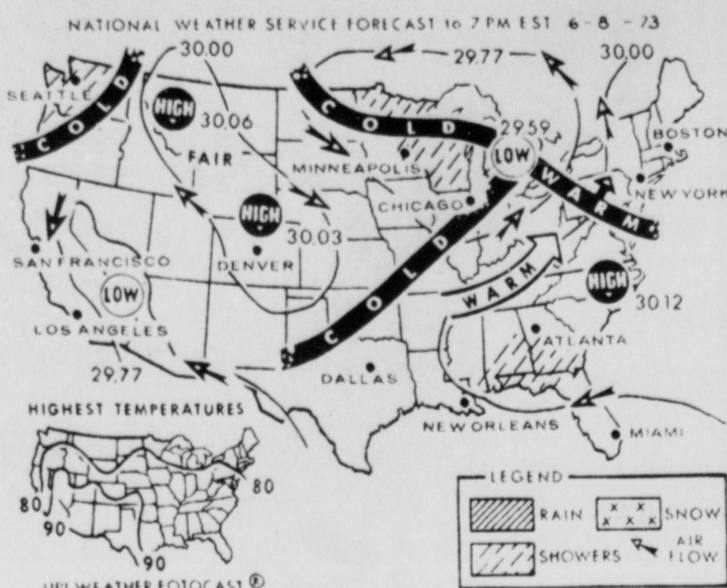

For the record

Additional survivors of two individuals whose obituaries appeared in The Record this week were inadvertently omitted.

George L. Smith of Tobyhanna, who died Tuesday, is also survived by a son, Larry G. Smith of Scranton and a nephew, Leslie Carter who resides in the Smith home.

Garland A. Lodgson, 59, of 164 Elizabeth St., East Stroudsburg, who died Sunday, is also survived by two sons, Larry R. Lodgson and G.A. Lodgson Jr., both of Allentown.

Juvenile sent to Camp Hill

STROUDSBURG — Judge James R. Marsh ordered a 17-year-old Stroudsburg youth to Camp Hill juvenile detention center until further order of the court Thursday for having been absent without leave from Glen Mills detention center.

The juvenile left Glen Mills and turned himself in after less than a year. Marsh ordered a psychiatric examination at Allentown State Hospital.

An early return to prison was requested but the juvenile said he didn't want to go back to Glen Mills. So the judge sent him to Camp Hill.

662 to graduate over weekend

STROUDSBURG — A total of 662 seniors will graduate in commencement exercises at the four public high schools in Monroe County this weekend.

U. S. Rep. Joseph McDade R-10 will be guest speaker at the Stroudsburg High School commencement at 8 p.m. today, when 236 students will graduate.

The Stroudsburg valedictorian is Judith Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Miller of Delaware Water Gap. The salutatorian is Pauline Jack, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Jack of Chipfield Drive in Stroud Township.

Monroe County Commissioner Arlington R. Martin will be the guest speaker at the Pleasant Valley High School commencement in Brodheadsville at 2 p.m. Sunday, when 94 students will receive diplomas.

Two student speakers elected by their classmates will also give remarks. They are Sherry Kreger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kreger of Kresgeville and Burl K. Pudleiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Pudleiner of Kunkletown R.D. 1.

East Stroudsburg High School will hold commencement exercises for 146 students at 5:30 p.m. Sunday. The graduation will be entirely student oriented, with no guest speaker.

Class valedictorian is David Bzik, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bzik, 147 Analomink St., East Stroudsburg. Salutatorian is Diane Zacher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Zacher, 196 Analomink St., East Stroudsburg.

Both will present addresses, as will Senior Class President Michael D. Booth.

County outlines changes for jail

STROUDSBURG — New jail standards mean the "waiting period is officially over", according to Monroe County Commission Chairman Mrs. Nancy B. Shukaitis who outlined alternatives Thursday for meeting the new rules.

Monroe County Sheriff Forrest B. Sebring said earlier this week the new regulations are almost impossible to meet with the present county jail.

The standards, designed to protect the innocent, call for segregation of prisoners according to physical condition, mental capacity, age, stage of rehabilitation and frequency of jail habitation.

Sebring said that even with no prisoners, the jail can't meet standards set by the state.

The new regulations are effective in 1974. She said action had not been taken on the jail situation in Monroe County earlier because relief was expected through a regional correction institution at Moosic.

The plan for regionalization at Moosic originated in 1967, Mrs. Shukaitis said. But she continued, "We have been informed that the Moosic facility was not built due to changing philosophy" which affected building design and halted construction funding from the state.

Having received the new county jail standards a week ago, Mrs. Shukaitis outlined the following alternatives for meeting those standards:

— A half-way house or detention center for those under 18 to handle the few juvenile offenders in Monroe County. The small number of offenders make it "sensible" to join with other counties in creating the center.

Mrs. Shukaitis said Wayne, Pike and Carbon Counties may be interested in a joint venture and a meeting is planned to discuss it.

— Consenting sentenced prisoners including females could be — upon joint county approval — transferred to Northampton County.

— Work release prisoners could then use the space formerly occupied by juveniles which is apart from other jail inmates on the second floor.

— Unsented prisoners could use the additional space for expanded programs through the use of a joint juvenile center and transfer system.

— Weak and elderly prisoners might be housed in the present area of the Monroe County Jail which had been reserved for the sheriff and his wife on the second floor.

— Using facilities in the local municipality and the new Drug and Alcohol Clinic in Stroudsburg could prove to be helpful in dealing with alcohol offenders.

Mrs. Shukaitis said "considerable sums of money" have been spent on small rural jails such as the one in Monroe County.

"Indicating our demonstrated efforts at adding more and better qualified personnel and purchasing necessary equipment", Mrs. Shukaitis said the jail's budget doubled since 1968 from $56,623 to $106,278.

"Other than a new jail itself, there is no item of equipment which the sheriff has requested that was not acquired in the past five-and-a-half years," Mrs. Shukaitis said.

"Before any responsible administrators of public funds could properly plan for capital investments in the county jail, it was necessary to have a clear indication what steps the state had in mind," including the new written standards, Mrs. Shukaitis concluded.

Police charge Henryville man with terroristic threat

HENRYVILLE — George Leonhardt, 53, Henryville R.D. 1, who allegedly threatened a Pocono Aerial Spray official Wednesday was arrested by state police Thursday and charged with terroristic threat, a first degree misdemeanor.

Leonhardt was apprehended by Troopers Robert Werts and William Evans at his home.

He was arraigned before District Magistrate Gerald Canfield and released on a $10,000 property bond. He will have a hearing at 10:30 p.m. June 15 before District Magistrate Earl Ammerman.

Pocono Township Police Chief Danny Harnden said Leonhardt was charged with a new act under the Commonwealth's new Criminal Penal Code. The new set of laws went into effect Wednesday. He noted "it was the best section of new statutes that could be utilized."

Harnden said Leonhardt allegedly told Eugene Benben, operating manager of the spray firm, and two other persons at the Stroudsburg-Pocono Airport he would use a 30.06 rifle and two clips of ammunition if Frank "Skip" Miller, who was spraying for gypsy moths in Pocono Township flew over his home.

Leonhardt reportedly went to the state police barracks at Stroudsburg complaining of the spraying in Pocono Township.

Trooper Tom Jones told Miller at the Birchwood-Pocono Airport in Pocono Township about Leonhardt's visit, according to Harnden.

Miller wanted Pocono Township police to file a warrant for Leonhardt's arrest, but Harnden said they couldn't since the alleged act took place in Smithfield Township, which is under the jurisdiction of the state police.

State police said they would pick up the suspect but Miller himself would have to file the charges. Miller filed the charges early Thursday with Magistrate Ammerman.

The spray official said he wouldn't continue spraying in Pocono Township because of the alleged threat and neither in Hamilton Township because of a complaint by a state trooper at the Stroudsburg barracks.

Miller said "it's up to the commissioners and supervisors to work something out."

County commissioner Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis said Thursday Aerial's contract for Pocono Township is complete and two-thirds of the spray area for Hamilton is done.

However, many area residents in both townships have contracted with the spray firm for private spraying.

Mrs. Shukaitis said "it's up to the township to work out the problem with the spray company because they have a contract." The county is paying half of the spraying costs for the townships.

Pocono Township supervisor Willard Anglemeyer, who also acts as township police commissioner, said he spoke with Miller and he agreed to continue spraying.

Anglemeyer said he told Miller he would have a township policeman stationed near Leonhardt's home if Miller had to spray in that area.

In Hamilton Township, Supervisor Robert Field said he wasn't able to contact Miller Thursday but he knew he was spraying for two hours Thursday night.

Three men arrested on narcotic charges

PONONO PINES — Three Pocono Pines men were arrested by Tobyhanna Township police Wednesday night and charged with narcotics violations.

Arrested were Douglas Allen Oney, 23, John F. Valinote, Jr., 19, and Peter Charles Mandra, 20.

All three were arraigned before District Magistrate Earl Ammerman who set bail at $10,000 for Oney and Valinote, and $10,500 for Mandra.

Police said all three are charged with intent to manufacture a controlled substance and Mandra is also charged with attempt to commit an unlawful entry.

Oney was lodged in the Monroe County Jail Thursday night in lieu of bail while the others were free on bail.

Valinote and Oney will have hearings June 15 before District Magistrate Clara Pope of Mount Pocono and Mandra June 13.

Police Chief Robert Reed said police found marijuana at the house and other suspected drugs which were turned over to the state police laboratory.

S-burg man guilty in shooting case

STROUDSBURG — A Monroe County jury convicted Edward Johnson of Stroudsburg on a reduced charge Thursday, finding him guilty of assault with intent to maim. The verdict capped Johnson's three-day trial for assault with intent to kill.

'Warlock' convicted by jury

STROUDSBURG — Self-proclaimed member of the Warlock motorcycle gang, Hale Smith of Nazareth, was convicted Thursday on one count of burglary and two counts each of larceny and receiving stolen goods.

After deliberating about an hour, a Monroe County jury returned five guilty verdicts against Smith in connection with the theft of seven snowmobiles transported in a stolen truck Dec. 10, 1972.

Smith was accused of taking part in the burglary of seven snowmobiles from Pocono Snowmobile Center in Mount Pocono and later driving five of the vehicles in a van taken from Pocono Distributing.

On the stand in his own defense Smith claimed to have been paid $100 for driving a truck from Stroudsburg to the Philadelphia airport.

He said he never knew there were stolen snowmobiles in the truck — that "a guy" in a Philadelphia bar offered $100 cash if he picked up the van in Stroudsburg and delivered it to the airport.

"I was just doing it for the money," Smith said moving his tattooed hands nervously. "For all I know there could have been bodies in the back. A hundred bucks is a hundred bucks."

Explaining he used a screw driver to start the truck, Smith said he was told there would be a key in the van, but when he tried it "the whole thing fell out." He said he then resorted to the screwdriver.

Judge James R. Marsh gave Smith the customary seven days to file post-trial motions, and released Smith on $13,000 bond.

During the trial he admitted firing a .38 caliber pistol — wounding a Pen Argyl man March 31.

Faced with choosing between sharply differing accounts of the shoot-out, the jury found Johnson had committed a lesser offense.

Had he been found guilty of the indicted charge, Johnson would have faced a maximum sentence of seven years in prison.

Under the assault with intent to maim, he faces a possible five-year term.

The Commonwealth's case claimed Johnson was responsible for firing unprovoked shots at two men driving a pick-up truck along Interstate 80 in the early morning hours of March 31.

The defense presented five witnesses who said Johnson fired in desperation, after being harassed by his victim, William Kornafel of Pen Argyl, and Howard Overpeck, owner of the pick-up truck.

On the stand, Johnson testified he fired "to protect myself and everyone else's life in the car." He also said he saw "muzzle flashes" coming from the Overpeck truck during a 10-mile highway chase.

An hour and 15 minutes after they took the case for deliberation, the jury returned for instruction on the range of lesser charges.

President Judge Arlington W. Williams told the jurors Johnson could be convicted of aggravated assault and battery, assault with intent to maim and simple assault and battery.

After the verdict was returned, Williams instructed Johnson he had seven days for post trial motions and released him on $6,000 bail.

Atty. Michael Wetmore, Johnson's lawyer, said an appeal would be considered on any verdict with the possible exception of simple assault, but he said he would have to confer with his client.

District Attorney James F. Marsh prosecuted the case.

Manor changes study authorized by county

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Commissioners Thursday authorized an architectural plan for Pleasant Valley Manor to design what is necessary to meet state safety standards.

Primarily concerned about installing sprinklers in the county home's old wing, the commissioners said the study by Rinker-Keifer-Rake should be broad enough to account for all state requirements.

The official action came on the heels of an announcement that the state Department of Labor and Industry won't require a fire wall on the first floor of the old wing.

The county is trying to reclaim 39 beds for residential care in the 1924 building. In other official matter, the commissioners authorized a part-time secretary and answering service for the county Office of the Aging.

Moth spraying

STROUDSBURG — The Department of Environmental Resources will spray for gypsy moth control in Paradise Valley, Mount Pocono, 330 acres in Scotrun and two state forest land tracts today. District Forester John Bitzer said the spraying in Monroe County could be completed tonight.

Motorists hearing scheduled

STROUDSBURG — The hearing date for John D. Foley, 32, North Bergen, N. J., charged with involuntary manslaughter in the traffic death of Ira Hufford, 55, Plymouth R. D. 1, Wednesday night has been scheduled for 10:45 p.m., June 14 before District Magistrate Earl Ammerman.

Foley is presently free on $10,000 bail. He was arraigned before Ammerman early Thursday.

Monroe County Coroner Daniel Warner ruled Hufford died of a ruptured aorta due to trauma.

The accident occurred about 7:45 p.m. Wednesday near the Saylorburg exit on Rte. 33.

Watergate tied-in during annual Red Cross meeting

STROUDSBURG — What does Watergate have to do with the Monroe County Chapter of the American Red Cross?

The tie-in was presented Thursday night to about 40 people gathered for the Red Cross' annual dinner meeting at the Penn Stroud Hilton.

"We may have put those people where they are," said Dr. David Potter, main speaker, "but they are not us. We are better than that; we are better people."

Potter, dean of Haverford College, told the assemblage "we (the majority) meet our obligations day in and day out. We get our jobs done with fairness, honesty and respect."

When children ask "what have you done to make this a better place to live," said Potter, a member of the American Friends Service Committee, "I hope we'll be able to say:

"I told the truth as I understood it . . . I have fallen short of my goals . . . I am still trying."

In a brief chapter chairman's message, Lester Brown said "the important thing isn't the message someone delivers. The important thing is the work."

The annual report showed the Red Cross locally collecting 2,215 units of blood in 14 collections. The disaster service branch provided assistance to 38 individuals with needs resulting from fires and floods.

Twenty-one volunteer First Aid instructors taught and issued standard and advanced certificates to 398 persons, while 4,886 received instruction and beginner swimmer through junior and senior lifesaving certificates.

In a business session, nine were named to terms expiring in June, 1976 on the board of directors. They were Mrs. James Coleman, Mrs. Sidney Cohen, Irving Goldberg, W.C.G. Peterson, Doyle Galloway, Howard Popkin, Celeste Rossi, John Stanford and Patricia Congdon.

Forrest Evans and Charles Snyder were named to terms expiring in June, 1975, with Gerald Miller and Louis Sommers elected to terms expiring next June.

Police, judges welcome state's new criminal code

STROUDSBURG — Police and judicial officials in Monroe County believe Pennsylvania's new Penal Code, which went into effect Wednesday, will clarify existing laws but will take time for them to understand.

The new code includes some common law — law in effect by custom and legal rulings instead of an act of legislature.

The code eliminates burdensome old laws, some of them passed when the Commonwealth was ruled by King George III, that have no meaning in the 20th century. Some of these include laws against cutting ferry ropes, dueling and leaving a stage coach unattended.

Monroe County President Judge Arlington Williams called the new Penal Code "a substantial change, but a change for the better."

"It's a step forward in reducing the volume of the law to a more compact form and will serve to clarify by means of penalties of various crimes that under the old law were somewhat obscure," Williams said. The code is a 179-page document. The previous code filled two thick volumes.

Williams believes the law will be more of a just way to deal with persons charged with crimes. He said "the penalties will fit the offense."

He cited larceny and other forms of stealing will be lumped under theft with seven degrees listed. This will be based on the amount of money involved. In the past, a man who stole $10 or $10,000 would still be charged with larceny.

The judge also noted crimes are now defined which was not true under the old code.

Judge James R. Marsh said the new code clarifies many of the Common Laws which will help police.

Marsh pointed out it will take at least a year for law enforcement officials to comprehend the code and take four or five years before the Appellate Courts "iron out the bugs."

The judge said the public will benefit for they will be in a better position to understand the penalties involved in a crime. However, Marsh said some of the definitions in the code are too burdensome for the ordinary public.

Overall, it appears both Monroe County judges, District Attorney James F. Marsh and state and local police will have to study the code in depth.

In Monroe County, police are being instructed in the new laws at the Stroud Township Municipal Building.

Two state policemen, Sgts. Thomas Sinkevich and William Puchinsky of the Hazleton barracks taught two 32-hour courses in May and will be returning next week. Troopers from the state police barracks at Stroudsburg and Fern Ridge as well as municipal police departments are participating in the instruction.

Stroudsburg Police Chief John Baujan said "we kind of have to play it by ear. It's like playing under different rules."

"One of the things I like about it, is that the shoe is on the other foot. Defense has to prove he didn't do it."

East Stroudsburg Police Chief Charles McDonald said "the change will place a lot of work on the magistrates and an awful lot of burden on defendant."

One of the county's eight district magistrate's, Graden Praetorius of Stroudsburg, said "many phases will go through Court of Appeals as far as I am concerned. I don't see any problems."

Praetorius disagreed with both police chiefs stating "the burden of proof is not upon the person charged — upon the accuser."

Capt. Nicholas Kordilla, commander of the state police at Dunmore who heads three other substations in Northeastern Pennsylvania, said "it's too early to tell the effect of the law . . . it's still in process of schooling."

"There will probably be difficulties in early stages — not unusual — but I don't anticipate any problems," Kordilla said.

Kordilla has yet to go through the training procedure to completely familiarize himself with the workings of the new code.

The new Penal Code was comprised by the Pennsylvania State Trial Judges and the Pennsylvania Bar Assn. and approved by the General Assembly.

It will conform with recent decisions by the U.S. Supreme Court and be similar to laws in surrounding states. The code is a complete revamping of the old penal code adopted 30 years ago.

The new laws establish seven divisions for criminal acts — first degree murder, first, second and third degree felonies and first, second and third degree misdemeanors. There is also a separate category for a summary offense.

Under the code, a suspect or a defendant is now known as an "actor" and a crime will be referred to as an act.

Record field entered in NCAA tennis tourney at ESSC

EAST STROUDSBURG — Co-defending champions California Irvine and Rollins College will head a record field competing in the 11th annual National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) College Division Tennis Championships starting Monday at East Stroudsburg State College.

A total of 44 colleges are entering 117 singles players and 53 doubles teams in the five-day tournament. The previous highs were 88 singles players and 41 doubles teams last year at Kalamazoo, Mich. College.

This is the second time East Stroudsburg has hosted the national tennis tournament.

The last time was in 1969 which also represented the last time Cal Irvine did not win or share the team title.

The California school was the solo winner in 1970 and 1971 and tied Rollins of Winter Park, Fla. at 22 points apiece in last year's tournament.

Coach Myron McNamara has two players back from his 1972 Cal Irvine tourney team in Bob Chappell and Greg Jablonski. Both reached the quarter-finals in singles and Jablonski was a semi-finalist in doubles.

Rollins will be led by John Lowman, a member of the championship doubles team the last two years. Lowman also was a semi-finalist in singles last year.

Brad Smith, who reached the fourth round as a freshman in 1972, is another veteran for Coach Norm Copeland's Florida team.

Eight of the top 10 teams from last year's tournament are back. Missing is third-place finisher Samford University which has moved to the NCAA university division.

Charlie Owens of Samford was the 1972 singles champion, beating Dan Lambert of California Poly San Luis Obispo in the final.

Lambert returns and will be a top contender for the singles title along with Lowman and Andy Rae, a junior from Melbourne, Australia for the University of San Diego, the other semi-finalist a year ago.

San Diego, Cal Poly SLO and two other California schools, Cal Davis and Cal Fullerton are expected to challenge for team honors. Only once in the 10-year history of the tournament has a non-California school won the title (Rollins in 1965).

Each school may enter four singles players and two doubles team. There will be one flight for singles and one for doubles with a point for each victory. The lone exception is in the second round where a team may earn two points if it received a first-round bye.

Other leading teams should be Kalamazoo, led by Willard Washburn; Northwest Missouri State, whose top player is Phil White;

Northern Iowa, featuring Bob Andres; and Nicholls, La. State, which has three players from Sweden.

With the tournament in Pennsylvania, there will be greater representation from eastern schools. Such top-flight regional players as William Young of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Mark Kivitz of the University of Rochester will be threats in singles.

Other players expected to be rated highly by the seeding committee include Scott Simpson of Western Illinois, who made the fourth round last year, Bob Frost of Luther College, Paul Vodak of Cal Davis, Alex Lawrence of Washington and Lee and Marty Johnson of South Dakota State.

There is a decided international flavor to the field with the players from Sweden and Australia joined by two players from Bogota, Colombia on the Hampton Institute team. San Diego also features a player, Hannu Ojala from Helsinki, Finland.

East Stroudsburg finished third, the highest finish ever by an eastern school, when it hosted the tourney in 1969. The Warriors should be strongest in doubles with teams of Bill Zeih and Bob Nunez and Jim Breech and John Gillespie.

Seatings will be made at 1 p.m. Sunday followed by the draw at 3 p.m. Play will start at 8 a.m. Monday on East Stroudsburg's seven courts and six additional courts at nearby Stroudsburg High School. All have all-weather surfaces.

The finals are tentatively set for Friday, June 15. Dr. Charles Wolbers, East Stroudsburg coach, and John R. Eiler, athletic director, are co-tournament chairmen.

Some bits and pieces

MORRIS FRACE, rifle coach at Stroudsburg High School, threw what may have been a well deserved barb at the school's Varsity "S" Club during its annual banquet Wednesday night.

While presenting the most valuable shooter award to MARK ROVITO, Frace commented that "it was a shame this body did not see fit to honor this team." The Mounties won the Northeastern Pennsylvania Interscholastic Rifle League championship.

But the team was not singled out for recognition during the banquet. The girl's field hockey team, which was the Lehigh Valley League champion, was given individual jackets during the affair.

TOM FULTON and GRAY PROPST have been named co-captains of the East Stroudsburg basketball team next year. Both were a vital part of last year's team which was in contention most of the season for the Lehigh-Northampton League title.

Stroudsburg High School has added Delaware Valley and Pius X of Roseto to its basketball schedule next year. It dropped powerhouse Easton and Nazareth. The Mounties have also dropped GAR from their wrestling schedule.

BOB SOUTHALL, a regular on the Mounties' football team last year, will attend Virginia Tech, the school which produced standout quarterback DON STROCK.

GEORGE SOPKO, son of Mr. and Mrs. GEORGE SOPKO of Mountainhome, will transfer to Franklin and Marshall next fall.

Sopko, a 1971 graduate of Pocono Mountain High School where he was a member of the football and wrestling teams and senior class president, recently graduated from Keystone Junior College. He was a member of the school's wrestling team.

SCOTT ZUKOWSKI, GEORGE HAMLEN and JIM PALMER combined to lead East Stroudsburg High School to a successful golf season. Zukowski was 9-4-1 and averaged 82.3 per round. Hamlen, 10-4, averaged 86.6 while Palmer, 9-4, had an 89.4 average.

The Pocono Mountain Basketball Camp is to open Sunday and run its first session until July 7. After a break for girl's basketball, the camp, located at the Pocono All-Star Sports Resort, Echo Lake, will reopen July 29 and run until Aug. 31.

The resort, owned and operated by HARRY LITWACK, retiring coach at Temple, and BILL FOSTER, head coach at the University of Utah, will be staffed by outstanding pro players and college coaches.

1 American survives in Britain

PORTHCAWL, Wales (UPI) — Dick Siderowf was the only American of an initial 55 U.S. entries to survive in British Amateur golf championship play Thursday.

Siderowf, a stockbroker from Easton, Conn., gained the quarter finals by defeating Donald Steele 3 and 2 in the morning and eliminating Britain's Martin Lygate, 3 and 1, in fifth round play in the afternoon.

Alan Brodie of Scotland, who whipped John Beutler of Clarkston, Wash., 3 and 1.

There were six Americans at the start of play, but only Siderowf and Dale Morey, of High Point, N.C. were alive after the morning round.

Morey had a spectacular victory, 7 and 5, over Ken Horn of England in the fourth round, but in the afternoon he fell, 2 and 1, to England's Harry Clark.

Here are the five players who will represent East Stroudsburg State College in the 11th annual NCAA College Division Tennis Championships starting Monday at both ESSC and Stroudsburg High School. From left, Chuck Ackerman, Bill Zeih (holding Pennsylvania Conference championship trophy), Jim Breech, Bob Nunez and John Gillespie.

Seeks to complete Triple Crown

Secretariat (who else?) Belmont favorite

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretariat, with Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes victories behind him, was entered Thursday for the 105th running of the Belmont Stakes Saturday and was an odds-on favorite to win and complete a clean sweep of the triple crown classics.

Not since Citation romped home in all three races in 1948, has a thoroughbred been able to pull off this feat, even though half a dozen horses got as close as Secretariat only to fail in the Belmont Stakes.

Six three-year olds were entered for the mile and half classic, the longest of the triple crown races. Once again Sham, second in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, loomed as Secretariat's strongest challenger.

This time Sham will have a running mate in Nightly Dawn, winner of the Jersey Derby at Garden State Park in his last start. Nightly Dawn was entered by trainer Frank "Pancho" Martin, who was as confident as ever that Sham could beat Secretariat especially if there was a fast pace in the grueling test of speed and stamina.

Rounding out the field were My Gallant, Pvt. Smiles and Twice A Prince. With only six starters the New York Racing Association announced there will only be win and place betting.

Pvt. Smiles was the only starter who never has challenged Secretariat. He owed his starter's birth to a fast-closing second in the Jersey Derby.

Ron Turcotte, the hard-ridden Canadian who has ridden Secretariat in 12 of the colt's 14 races, once again will be aboard the son of Bold Ruler, who was eager to run according to the trainer, Lucien Laurin.

"He's been raising hell, ready to go. Let's hope he stays that way until Saturday," the trainer said.

Secretariat, still owned by the Meadow Stable until Nov. 14 when the syndicate which paid $6,000,000 for the colt takes over, was odds on at 2-5. Sham and Nightly Dawn were 5-2, with a pair of California jockeys coming east to ride them.

Laffit Pincay, who rode Sham to victory in the Santa Anita Derby as well as second places in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, once again will ride the bay colt.

My Gallant was third choice at 8-1 with Pvt. Smiles listed at 10-1 and Twice A Prince 50-1.

Secretariat, horse of the year in 1972 even though he was a two-year old, already has won $805,118 and he shoots for a winner's purse of $90,720. Second place will be worth $33,364 with $18,144 to third and $9,072 to fourth.

Mrs. Gould wins tourney

STROUDSBURG — Peg Gould shot a 71 Thursday to win the weekly Glen Brook Women's Golf Assn. tournament. Sally Viechnicki won the nine-hole tournament.

Class winners were: Elaine Martin, Betty Imbt, Eleanor Weiss and Marilyn Kessler. Lucky Viechnicki and Nan Dimity won chipins. Mrs. Viechnicki also won low putts.

Davis backs Messersmith as Dodgers beat Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Right-hander Andy Messersmith scattered three hits and Willie Davis belted a two-run homer Thursday to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The victory improved Messersmith's record to 6-5 and gave him his fourth complete game and first shutout of the season. The veteran of five American League seasons checked the Cubs on singles by Don Kessinger in the third and Rick Monday in the eighth and a double by Jose Cardenal in the fourth. The Dodgers scored their first run in the fourth when rookie Ron Cey singled behind Willie Crawford's double. The Dodgers then chased Cubs' starter and loser Rick Reuschel in the eighth when Davis hammered his eighth homer of the year after Bill Buckner had singled.

The Dodgers got their final run in the ninth when Messersmith forced Steve Yeager at second on an attempted bunt and then scored when Dave Lopes tripled.

Jets sign Nance as free agent

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Nance, former all pro running back with the New England Patriots, Thursday signed as a free agent with the New York Jets of the National Football League.

Nance was traded by the Patriots to Philadelphia last July 25 for a draft choice but he was waived in September when he was reportedly out of shape.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A strong rally in the last trading hour carried stocks sharply higher Thursday in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed up 11.44 at 909.62, after being only about 2 points ahead at 2 p.m. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index climbed 1.53 to 105.84. The average price of a NYSE common share rose 52 cents.

Winners ran well ahead of losers, 908 to 471, among 1,746 issues traded.

Volume totaled 14,160,000 shares, compared with 13,080,000 shares Wednesday.

Analysts said although the low volume figure shows there was limited buying interest, the market's performance was surprisingly good in view of several potentially damaging developments. Investors had been hoping for concrete word, after a cabinet meeting early Thursday, that President Nixon would announce a tightened wage-price guidelines.

Millionaires who didn't take it with them

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Harold, Will, Edward, and William each arrived at the same conclusion when it came to that universal topic — you can't take it with you.

Millionaires all — silent film comic Harold Lloyd; humorist Will Rogers; oil tycoon Edward Doheny; and chewing gum king William Wrigley — each made some arrangements that their lavish mansions in Los Angeles be thrown open to the public upon their death.

Will Rogers' heirs were the first to give the public a break in the 1950s. And today the polo grounds and giant ranch estate is a popular state park secluded in the foothills and eucalyptus groves of the Pacific Palisades. Thousands each year tour this fascinating home of one of America's best-loved humorists.

This spring, tourist buses began winding up a sun-dappled Beverly Hills hillside, toward the splendid Mediterranean estate of film comic Harold Lloyd, the bumbling, loveable hero with the straw hat and owlish spectacles.

His grand, Italianesque mansion sits amid a cool, park-like setting, 16 rooms in all, spread over 16 acres. The tranquil estate is a cluster of exotic trees and shrubs, big formal gardens, splashing pools, sunny stretches of manicured lawn and a Roman fountain that played a big part in the superstitious life of the slender, silent-era funnyman.

"The only time he would ever walk or drive around that fountain," recalls a former employee today, "was the night he died."

Known as Greenacres, the luxurious Lloyd estate was constructed for $2 million in the pre-tax era when a 30-room beach house was lightly known as a cottage. Lloyd's mansion was, like they said in the movie "Sunset Boulevard," "the kind of place that crazy movie people built in the crazy '20s."

A short drive east, in the opulent, terraced foothills of Bel-Air, where mansions are thick as trees, is the Greystone Estate, an English Tudor-style home with ghostly gables, a dark slate roof, a real brick courtyard and the quiet scent of wealth.

Oil tycoon Edward Doheny, one of the nation's biggest at the turn of the century, spent $4 million to create for his son what architects typify as the "California baronial." The mansion, today a Beverly Hills city park, has 55 rooms — with great, gaping hallways and hand-sculpted balustrades — and was four years in construction.

Greystone, once part of the vast 400-acre Doheny estate overlooking a young Los Angeles, was the family home until the Dohenys left in 1955. A group of concerned citizens then paid $1 million for it rather than see it subdivided into an expensive tract.

Today it is occupied by the American Film Institute, which has installed bright, young filmmakers and their machinery in the bedrooms and bathrooms of one of the last of America's oil tycoons.

The house that chewing gum built is on the other side of town where William Wrigley spent a small fortune for a sprawling two-story mansion on

The Chicago-born chewing gum king and his wife, Ada, moved into the splendid white mansion in 1914 when shiny black carriages and high-stepping trotters clip-clopped down Orange Grove Boulevard and the scent of citrus groves lay thickly in the air.

Today the big home with handsome Spanish tiles, wrought iron balconies and a blaze of colorful roses is the permanent home of the Tournament of Roses Association, the popular staging area for the New Year's Day Parade.

Half-hour guided tours of the house and rose tournament museum are given free on Wednesday afternoons, and have been since the early 1960s.

Second-hand computers hit market

NEW YORK (UPI) — There's an interesting and lucrative parallel in the over-all growth of the automobile and computer industries.

At one time there was no used car market. People bought and ran cars until they fell apart. Then they bought new cars.

The same was true in the computer industry until 10 years ago, when George H. Heilborn quit Philco's computer division and went to New York to convince people there was a large market potential in used computers.

Heilborn, 39, now president of IPS Computer Marketing Corp. of Englewood Cliffs, N.J., which sells and leases used computer equipment, laughed when he recalled the company's sales in 1964, the first full year he was in that market.

"They were exactly $1,343 said the slim man who holds degrees in physics from Northwestern University and Harvard. "We'll do about $10 million this year."

The "40 or 50" companies in the market will gross about $75 million in 1973.

Other major "used computer" companies include Comdisco of Chicago, TLW Computer Industries, Inc. of Atlanta and Computer Exchange of Great Neck, N.Y.

Corporations in "paper shuffling" businesses, which need added computer power—banks, insurance companies, finance companies and accounting firms—make up about 80 per cent of the used computer market. New users who can't afford new equipment account for the rest.

Air traffic controllers may be aided by computer

FREMONT, Calif. (UPI) — The air traffic controller presses a button and a computer flashes the word "conflict" onto a screen about the size of a television.

This tells him two airliners hundreds of miles out over the Pacific — far away from any radar tracking — are on a possible collision course.

"The computer does it in a few seconds," says Jim Dixon, a veteran controller at the Air Route Traffic Control Center which shepherds flights across the Pacific to Hawaii.

"It takes minutes to figure out the possible course the old way," he said at the huge FAA installation that employs more than 400 persons.

The computer is undergoing lengthy tests at the facility and the scene above was only a simulation, but Dixon has no doubt "this is the way of the future."

Dixon and colleague Charles Cox are in charge of the test of IDIOM, an acronym for Information Displays Inc. Input-Output Machine.

The new equipment is set up next to the bank of desks where controllers keep track of planes. The men use the "old way," filling in strips of paper with the latest data on each plane and marking the planes' progression on a map.

Dixon does the same thing by just pressing a button.

"Sometimes a controller has to keep track of 15 planes," he said as he pressed another button.

"The computer won't let you forget any of them," Cox said.

Dixon estimates the men at the oceanic desk "have a tenfold responsibility over those handling domestic work."

This, he said, is because they have to keep up on a plane's position every 10 degrees or so of longitude and latitude.

While the domestic controller at the center simply fills in one strip of paper when the plane takes off, his oceanic counterpart has to keep updating the information because he doesn't have the advantage of radar.

IDIOM gets most of its information fed into it in advance of the flight and from periodical voice checks with the pilot.

However, it can be plugged into a system called "data link" and its ability expands by leaps, Dixon said.

With data link the computer can "talk" to equipment on the plane that provides the latest information on such items as course and altitude.

Without this ability, the computer can update the picture every two minutes. With data link it can do it every 30 seconds.

The airlines have had data link for some time, Dixon said, but FAA controllers now must call the airlines' communication centers for the information.

"But with our own data link we get it as fast as they do," he said. "I once made a survey and found that we spend 500 man hours a month making those calls."

The latest government estimate for placing the computer and data link throughout the FAA system is 1975.

Old Cisco Kid now lives in active semi-retirement

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Duncan Renaldo, the Cisco Kid of the movies and television, is 69 years old and semi-retired in a small town less than an hour from the studio which brought him fame and a modest fortune.

Renaldo is enjoying a brief flurry of attention with the popularity of a best-selling record titled "The Cisco Kid Was A Friend of Mine" by a group which calls itself War.

Looking many years younger than his age, the Spanish-born actor may still be seen in many parts of the world in reruns of his old television series. Not a few channels in the United States still run them.

"We filmed 156 half-hour episodes," he said. "And I did about a dozen feature films of Cisco for theaters."

Series Shot in Color

"Even in those early days of 1948 we shot the series in color when all the stations were still in black and white. The first movie was in 1943. I'd made several of them when I went into the armed services."

Renaldo was instrumental in convincing Leo Carrillo to play the role of Pancho, Cisco's sidekick.

"Leo thought he would be a buffoon," Renaldo said. "Spanish-speaking people objected to both characters when Cesar Romero played Cisco in earlier pictures."

"I went to Mexico and talked to a group of Latin American representatives, telling them we would fashion the characters after Don Quixote and Sancho Panza. They agreed and so it was done."

In early television they were heroes to children around the world. Even Cisco's horse, Diablo, was revered by small fry.

"Diablo is still alive," Renaldo said, grinning. "He's 33 years old now. I retired him to a horse ranch where he leads the good life in pasture. The other day he jumped a five-foot fence. I wish I could do that at my age."

Renaldo does all right even

Officials ponder Nixon resignation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some of President Nixon's bitterest critics argue that even if he is shown to have more direct connections with Watergate than has yet been proven, he should not be driven to the point of resigning lest this endanger the era of improved relations with Russia and China.

This contention is based on the assumption that the continued progress toward a stable and more fruitful relationship between Washington and the two major Communist powers depends upon the political survival of Nixon and his executive officer, Henry A. Kissinger.

State Department officials in general do not buy this theory. Neither do many of the more informed foreign diplomats here. These officials doubt that even the removal of the President would reverse an historical process which was inevitable.

They point out that it would have taken a particularly obtuse president to fail to see the leverage available to the United States in the continued and bitter ideological and geographical dispute between Russia and China.
